COST OF LIVING GOES UP

AT 'MISS UNIVERSE' BALL — A good time was had by all at the grand coronation ball ending the "Miss Universe" contest in Long Beach, Calif., last Saturday — especially by Naval Aviation Cadet David Oas, of Minnesota. He was selected to accompany "Miss Pennsylvania", lovely Rosalie Culp, of Monessen, to the gala event.

Rosalie Culp Arrives Home for Long Rest

Lovely Rosalie Culp, of Monessen, who represented Pennsylvania in the recent "Miss Universe" beauty contest at Long Beach, Calif., arrived back home yesterday tired but still radiantly beauteous after 11 days of "really living."

Rosalie, who left for the contest on July 11, said she "never dreamed a person could do so much in 11 wonderful, thrilling days."

The stunning 20-year-old brunette with sparkling brown eyes and statuesque figure didn't win top honors among the 44 other contestants from the United States, but she was one of 10 beauties selected by Hollywood movie scouts for an interview and screen test.

Rosalie accepted the interview but bypassed the screen test stating she was "homesick and not interested in the movies."

Declines Movie Test

Scouts tried to persuade her to remain in Hollywood for a test and a possible movie contract but she declined.

"Honestly, I was flattered by their offers, but I have no desire to act in the movies. I want to make fashion modeling my career. That is my goal."

She shouldn't have too much trouble with her desire because offers have been pouring in for her services from fashion salons in Pittsburgh and New York. Although only 20, graceful Rosalie is considered somewhat of a veteran in modeling, having modeled fashion attires in large department stores and countless private and public showings.

As for her trip to California, Rosalie said it was action-packed from the time she arrived until her departure early yesterday morning.

Besides participating in the contest, where she strolled about a spacious outdoor stage before thousands of spectators, first in a trim-fitting bathing suit then in a billowing evening gown, Rosalie visited movie locations and hobnobbed with many screen stars.

She met actors Dick Powell, Robert Wagner and George Saunders, and singer-actors Tommy Sands and Pat Boone. Her long chat with actress Terry Moore, she said, was "thrilling."

Rosalie said it was like "old

Four to Quit Race for TV Channel at Irwin

WASHINGTON (UP) — Four of the five contestants for TV channel four at Irwin, Pa., informed the Federal Communications Commission Tuesday they desire to withdraw from the channel fight. This would leave a clear field for the application of Television City, Inc.

Under an agreement submitted to the commission for approval, the new television station would be owned 50-50 by WCAE, Inc. a subsidiary of Hearst Publications Co. which publishes the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and by Television City, Inc. which holds stock in Pittsburgh radio station KQV.

Three of the channel four applicants agreed to outright withdrawal of their bids. In return, Television City has agreed to reimburse each $50,000 for expenses incurred in the contest which has gone on for more than three years.

The firms withdrawing from the contest are Wespen Television, Inc. of Irwin; Matta Enterprises of Braddock, Pa. and Irwin Community Television Co. which is associated with station WEDO at McKeesport.

Under the proposal, WCAE also will withdraw its bid for the channel. However, ECAE has an agreement with Television City under which it will receive 50 per cent of the stock in the new channel four station.

Television City told the commission it will locate its new station at McKeesport, if its application is approved.

Reason for Blast

PALERMO, Sicily (UP)—Authorities said today that a blast which killed one person, injured six others and damaged four houses Tuesday was caused by a boy lighting a match to check for leaks in a container of gasoline he was delivering.

Planning In Valley Discussed

Twelve communities of the mid-Monongahela Valley area will take a further look at the possibility of joint planning as a result of a conference on the topic last night at the Donora Community Center.

Charleroi, Donora, Monessen, Monongahela and eight neighboring boroughs and townships from Allenport to New Eagle along the Monongahela river are included in the group that will consider the formation of a Regional Planning Commission.

James H. Pickford, regional supervisor of planning for the state Bureau of Community Development, explained to those present last night the functions which a regional commission might perform and the assistance which would be available to individual communities through such an agency.

Almost Essential

He suggested that regional planning is becoming essential for the orderly growth and development of close-knit areas like the Monongahela, Valley Inter-community cooperation is the only sensible approach to many of the problems which are growing increasingly complex and costly, he declared.

Last night's meeting had been called by the Washington County Redevelopment Authority. The Authority's administrative assistant, Keery McAmbley, presided.

Another meeting is to be called in August to discuss the extent of the region and the basis of representation by individual communities.

Representatives are being asked meanwhile to determine from their respective councils and planning groups what official interest exists in a regional planning commission.

Those from Monessen attending the meeting were Thomas Preston and William Pore, members of the local Planning Commission; Robert Way, planning consultant for the City; and George Cieply, Chamber of Commerce secretary.

Three Indicted By Westmoreland Grand Jury

A Westmoreland County grand jury this week indicted two men in connection with a series of thefts in West Newton earlier in the year.

Held for court were James E. Moller, McKeesport, and Robert J. Hare, Duquesne. They were charged with robbery, burglary and larceny and aggravated assault and battery.

State Trooper Malcolm A. Kaus charged the two men held up Marilyn Berry in the West Newton office of the Field Finance Corp. on March 18, struck her with a revolver and took $1,100 in cash from the firm.

The two men were also indicted for twice attempting to burglarize a chain store in West Newton, March 17 and May 2.

Also held was Rudolph Forty, of Monessen, on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

RAIL REMOVAL WORK BEGINS — Employes of the Charleroi Iron Co. are shown this morning as work begins on the removal of 11,000 feet of abandoned street car rails in downtown Monessen. The work began at Oneida St. and Donner Ave. Looking on are Assistant City Engineer Richard Belan, Councilman John Kotch and Streets Foreman Charles Richie. The tracks will be removed the entire length of Donner Ave. to 12th St. with an oxygen-fed portable cutting machine expected to remove a block of rail a day.

Chamber Plans Crackdown on Anti Park 'N Shop Merchants

The Monessen Chamber of Commerce today cracked down on "phlegmatic and stubborn" merchants who have refused to participate in the Chamber's Park 'N Shop program.

In a special "give-em-hell" bulletin, the Parking and Traffic Committee of the Chamber warned that "drastic action" is being planned to persuade the reluctant merchants.

"Checking over the records, we have found several merchants who remain reluctant in dispensing tokens to shoppers making the necessary purchases," the bulletin said. "Yet they are the same 'cry-bellies' that have for years chanted for off-street parking facilities."

The bulletin pointed out that city officials have refused to consider additional off-street parking plazas until the present facility between Fourth and Fifth Streets on Donner and Schoonmaker Avenues becomes self-sufficient.

'Lack of Cooperation'

The Chamber apparently feels this can be accomplished if all merchants cooperate in the Park 'N Shop program. Under this plan, customers are given a parking token for a total purchase of $2.

The bulletin made it clear that many merchants are taking part in the token program.

"But the lack of cooperation on the part of several merchants dictates our action," continued the bulletin.

"The sooner we assume this responsibility of sharing in Monessen's growing pains, the sooner we will see new parking plazas dotting the business community's horizon, stated the bulletin. "Yes, many of our first echelon merchants realize and accept the fact that providing off-street parking is to be considered another good business expense. Their fine partici-

Miner Killed; Another Trapped In Robena Mine

MASONTOWN, Pa. (UP) — A cave-in killed one miner and trapped another for six hours Tuesday at the Robena No. 3 mine of U.S. Steel Corp.'s Frick Division.

Jerry Sova, 61, Bitmer, Fayette County, a roof bolter, was found crushed to death five hours after Andy Wydo, 6, McClellandtown, Fayette County, a cutting machine operator, was rescued.

Wydo, apparently uninjured, was taken to Uniontown Hospital for observation.

The roof cave-in occurred while the men were working at the face of the mine. Wydo apparently was shielded when slate formed an arch above him, officials said.

Rescuers immediately began removing the tons of slate piece by piece, working slowly and carefully to prevent another cave-in.

The entrance to the No. 3 mine is located about seven miles west of the Monongahela River in Greene County near here. Robena is the world's largest bituminous coal operation.

Official Word On Area Death

The Air Force yesterday notified Mrs. Anna Cavrak Odom of Gillespie, that the body of her husband, Lt. Dwight Odom, 28, was among those identified at the scene of a plane crash on Formosa last Thursday.

The telegram stated plans for shipment of the body will be sent later.

Lt. Odom, son of Mrs. Orville Gage, of R. D. 1, Fayette City, was a crew member of a twin-engine C-47 transport plane which crashed near the end of a flight from Clark ield in the Philippines to its base in Taipei, Formosa. All 1 servicemen aboard perished.

Man Is Cut by Exploding Bottles

The inside of a car belonging to John J. Morgan, 27, of Jeannette, sounded like a shooting gallery yesterday when some pop bottles he had in the auto exploded.

Flying glass cut Morgan about the elbow. He was treated at Monsour Hospital near Jeannette.

Split in Ranks Of Truck Groups Has Been Healed

PITTSBURGH (UP — A split in the ranks of organized motor freight carriers in Western Pennsylvania has been healed with the merger of two groups, it was announced Tuesday.

Jack Harrison, president of the Western Pennsylvania Motor Carriers Association, and Howard Miller, head of the Associated Motor Carriers, said their groups will unite.

The breakup occurred in December, 1955, over differences in the long strike of Teamsters Local 249 against the WPMCA the previous summer.

The WPMCA, the older group, is comprised of 110 firms. The Associated, organized in January, 1956, has 30 members.

Present officers of the WPMCA will be retained until an election in December, according to the joint announcement.

Postponed Concert At Park Tonight

A concert of popular music by the Stuart Arnold orchestra will be presented tonight at City Park beginning at 7 p. m. according to Recreation Director Tom D'Errico.

Originally this program was planned for last Sunday, but rain forced a postponement.

The orchestra will appear through the courtesy of the Mon Valley chapter of the musicians union.

Hotel Is Purchased

PITTSBURGH (UP)—John Penn, manager of the Carlton House here, and a group of Pittsburgh associates have purchased the Humes Hotel in Mercer, Pa., it was disclosed today.

Pay Increases Will Be Granted 650,000 Workers

WASHINGTON (UP) — The cost of living rose last month to 120.2 per cent of the 1947-49 base average, setting a new record for the 10th month in a row.

The Labor Department said today that the consumer price index rose one-half of one per cent between May and June — mostly because of higher food prices — to pass the 120 per cent mark for the first time.

The increase means cost of living pay increases ranging up to four cents an hour for approximately 650,000 workers in trucking and in electrical and aircraft factories whose wage contracts provide for changes based on the consumer price index for June.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics which computes the index, said he expects the cost of living to rise again in July. But he said it probably will go down in August unless the drought now affecting fresh fruit and vegetable crops gets much worse.

May Drop Later

Clague said there also is a possibility that the cost of living may decline in later months of the year, reversing an upward trend that began in April, 1956.

The BLS also reported that the buying power of the average factory worker's take-home pay — weekly earnings after federal taxes—also showed a slight increase in June for the first time this year.

This was attributed to an increase in the factory work week and a penny-an-hour increase in average factory workers' earnings, which together more than offset the cost of living rise last month.

The average take-home pay of the factory worker with three dependents in June rose by 65 cents to $75.13 a week. The average factory worker's purchasing power rose one-half of one per cent to 121 per cent of the 1947-49 period.

The June cost of living jump was caused mainly by a larger-than-usual increase in fresh fruit prices for the month and higher prices for all cuts of meat and frying chickens.

Increases also were reported, however, for all other major categories of goods and services except transportation. In transportation, larger discounts on new car prices at the dealer's level and summer price cuts for tires offset higher prices for used cars, gas-

Baby Electrocuted In Fall at Home

PITTSBURGH (UP) — James Hardesty Jr., 15-months, was electrocuted Tuesday when he fell from a scooter in his home and apparently touched an exposed wire.

Police said the boy's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hardesty breathed into his mouth in a futile attempt to revive the child. Police used an inhalator without success.

No Pay Increase For Steelworkers

PITTSBURGH (UP) The cost of living rise last month will have no effect upon wages. of Westinghouse Electric Corp. employes or. members of the United Steelworkers union.

The USW's contract calls for increases in January and June for workers in basic steel and in many fabricating plants.

Westinghouse employes will get an increase in the third week of August if the cost of living rises.

Attempt Made to Burn Home of Numbers Baron

PITTSBURGH (UP) — An attempt was made today to burn down the 10-room home of an alleged numbers baron.

The incident was the latest attempt at violence in a "war" among district numbers barons which has resulted in four bombings.

Police, acting on an anonymous tip that the home of Henry Katz, 47, was "going to blow up," sped to the three-story home in the Squirrel Hill section and found gasoline had been spread over a back porch. A partially charred, rolled-up newspaper lay on the porch.

"This is terrible," Katz complained. "It could have been a tragedy."

Katz, arrested on a lottery charge in 1943, allegedly controls the numbers business on the city's North Side.

Asst. Police Supt. Lawrence J. Maloney said there was "no doubt" the attempted firing of Katz' home was a part of the rackets war which started two months ago.

New Bomber On Speed Trial

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—The B58 Hustler, the supersonic bomber whose speed has been estimated variously at 1,200 to 1,500 miles per hour, took off at 10:03 a.m. e.d.t. today on a secret mission, apparently to try and set a bomber speed record.

No one at Convair Aircraft, a division of General Dynamics Corp., where the plane is built, would say where the plane was headed, but it was believed en route either to Dayton, Ohio, or Washington.

It has flown a few test flights in this immediate area, but so far as is known has not made any cross-country hops.

The Air Force and Convair have released little information about the plane except that it has been known to fly twice the speed of sound.

Mental Health Center in Area

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A state mental health center will be set up here within 90-days, Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro said Tuesday.

Shapiro indicated the new hospital would be set up within an existing institution.

Dr. Robert A. Matthews, Commissioner for Metal Health, has been conferring with experts on the subject during the past two days, Shapiro said.

At the same time, the secretary warned the state mental health program will "have to go into retrogression" during the next two years because of decreased budgets.

Seven Are Guilty in Battle of Integration

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—The Tennessee integration struggle shifted today to the capital at Nashville from a federal courtroom here where John Kasper and six residents of Clinton sat stunned when a southern white jury found them guilty of criminal contempt.

In six weeks Nashville grammar schools open with integration going into effect in the first grade as part of a gradual desegregation plan that has won temporary approval of a U. S. district judge.

Kasper, 27, who is appealing two convictions for his interference with Clinton school integration, plans to go to Nashville in about 10 days to get in new groundwork.

With a blast at Gov. Frank Clement, the lanky Yankee-born segregationist said after his conviction that "Tennessee has no government" and the battle must be won or lost in this state.

In Clinton meanwhile the second integrated school year is expected to start late next month with 11 Negroes enrolled with some 750 whites. The Negroes will include five who attended last year. W. D. Human, the new principal, said the school board would set the exact opening date.

The Clinton residents, whose sentences along with Kasper's were delayed pending new trial motions, drove home through a sultry east Tennessee afternoon. They face possible sentences of six months in jail and $1,000 fines.

Kasper and the others were convicted of conspiring to violate U. S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor's injunction against interference with the Clinton integration. They were charged with blocking the Negroes' route to school and beating up a Baptist minister who ran a heckling guantlet to deliver the Negroes to class.

The twelve jurors chosen to sit through two weeks of testimony and summations were mostly craggy-faced mountaineers whose roots are in east Tennessee. There was one attractive housewife, a matronly school teacher and a young clerk, the only man under 40 in the group.

They deliberated two hours and nine minutes, not counting an hour and one half for lunch.

Fayette Pinball Testimony Ends With String of Defense Witnesses

Fayette County Judge Eustace H. Bane took the "pinball machine" case under advisement yesterday after both the defense and commonwealth rested their cases.

The state seeks to destroy 41 multiple-coin machines seized in raids last month on grounds they are gambling devices. Owners of the machines contend they are devices requiring skill.

A string of defense witnesses, including a justice of the peace, testified they played the machines for "fun and amusement" during yesterday's closing session in Uniontown.

Another witness called by Defense Attorney Louis P. Glasso refuted earlier testimony by Trooper Frank Lesch concerning events during seizure of pinball machines from the Uniontown Moose Club on June 20.

The defense's final three witnesses, Melvin P. Prinkey, Addison R. D. 2, Agnes Student, Oliphant Furnace, and James Gleason, Keisterville, all stated they played machines upon occasions for the past "several" years, for "fun and amusement."

None of the three was subjected to extensive questioning by either Glasso or Deputy Atty. General Frank P. Lawley, representing the Commonwealth.

Prior to appearance of the witnesses, the defense introduced Charles A. King, New Salem, secretary of the Moose Club, who alleged statements made by Trooper Lesch in his testimony were incorrect.

Lesch, on the opening day of the hearing, testified that King admitted payoffs had been made on three machines located in the Moose Club. Under examination by Glasso, King refuted this testimony and stated:

"I did not admit payoffs."

King, however, did admit showing a ledger found behind the Moose bar to Lesch. The ledger reportedly detailed figures on total receipts from the monthly take of the machines.

Prinkey, a justice of the peace in Addison Twp., Somerset County, was not cross-examined by Lawley.

Yesterday morning, the defense produced a 20-year-old student from McKeesport, William Klasnic, who estimated that he has played 2,000 pinball games.

In a ten-game demonstration, Klasnic won extra games five times.

Klasnic told the court that "skill, judgment and coordination" are used in playing pinball

Turnpike Case Delayed; Goes to Jury Tomorrow

HARRISBURG (UP).— Dauphin County Court today disclosed a sudden shift in plans that will delay the sending of the Pennsylvania Turnpike conspiracy trial to the jury by 24 hours.

Judge Homer L. Kreider said the 13-man defense battery raised 170 points of law on which they ask the court to instruct the jury before charging the panel.

Judge Kreider previously planned to take up this morning's session with his charge to the jury, and a review of almost two million words of testimony taken during the 40 day trial days for nine defendants accused of a multi-million dollar swindle of turnpike funds.

Under the new schedule the case will not go to the jury until Thursday morning.

The jurist termed the voluminous number of points raised by the defense "unheard of," adding that usually no more than 10 or 12 points are raised by the defense.

He said the defense attorneys had appointed a special "committee on points" among themselves to prepare their arguments for the court. This group, he said, originally presented 240 points, which were culled down to the lower number after conferences with the court.

Kreider told the United Press he worked until past Wednesday midnight preparing his answers to the defense's arguments and on his review of the case for the jury.

The panel will take into the jury room almost 100 exhibits presented by both sides during the trial and what they can remember of the testimony and arguments of about 75 witnesses.

The jury, made up almost entirely of retired workers and housewives with an average age of 60 years, will be asked to consider among 13 possible verdicts on four indictments charging the defendants with conspiracy to defraud the commission, misbehavior in office by two former commission members, and cheating by fraudulent pretenses by two mining engineers who contracted with the commission for mine-filling work in connection with the construction of the Northeastern Extension in 1955.

Ex-Chairman Involved

The former commissioners accused of conspiracy and misconduct in office are Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale Republican who was chairman from 1943 until his resignation in July, 1955, and James F. Torrance, Export, a former GOP state chairman and a member of the commission since 1942, suspended from the post last January by Gov. George M. Leader pending outcome of the trial.

Charged with false pretenses in the negotiation of a contract with the commission are Charles W. Stickler Jr., a nephew by marriage of Evans, and Clayton A. Landsidle. The two were president and vice president of the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co., Reading, which the state claims defrauded the commission of about $7,000,000 through the mine-filling work.

The others indicted with the above for conspiracy are:

John D. Paul, former commission engineer; Theodore S. Paul (no relation) former chief legal counsel for the commission; Paul J. McNeill, former commission finance director; and E. J. Donnelly and G. J. Hudert, both former consulting engineers to the commission.

home-week" when she and Smithton's Shirley Jones got together for a talk about acquaintances they both know. Shirley, now one of the screen's leading ladies, asked to be remembered to her many friends in the Monessen district, Rosalie recalled.

When not appearing in the contest activities, Rosalie and the other contestants were guests at several parties, luncheons and tours of Hollywood. The contest was climaxed with a coronation ball Saturday night at which Naval cadets were escorts.

Asked about the controversy that resulted when it was discovered that "Miss U. S. A. — Leona Gage of Maryland — was married and thus ineligible for the crown, Rosalie said she and all the other contestants "were shocked."

"Nebraska" Favorite

As for "Miss Maryland" comely Miss Culp said Miss Gage "stayed to herself most of the time before she was selected. She didn't associate much with the rest of us."

Rosalie's favorite for "Miss United States" was "Miss Nebraska", although "Miss Utah", the eventual winner, "is a very stunning girl."

The Peruvian beauty who was selected "Miss Universe" deserved the title, Rosalie said. She is a "very beautiful and charming girl."

While in Long Beach, the contestants stayed at a luxurious hotel where "we were waited on hand and foot."

"There was a car at our disposal at all times and we didn't have to walk an inch if we didn't want to. We were really treated like queens. I'll never forget it," she recalled with a smile that reflected her happy memories.

Happy to be Home

She said she received gifts galore, such as the bathing suit and evening gown she wore during the contest, sweaters, cosmetics, "oodles" of perfume, nylon stockings, bracelets, necklaces and flowers galore.

After her interview in The Daily Independent offices yesterday, Rosalie said,

"I had such a wonderful time and met such wonderful people. But you know what? 'I've yet to meet people who are as nice and friendly as the people of Monessen. I'm so happy to be home again."

After the interview, Rosalie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Culp, of 433 East Schoonmaker Ave., said she was going home to "get some sleep" after 11 days of "really living."

'Flying Boxcar' Is Forced Down

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UP)— An Air Force "flying boxcar" made a forced landing at Kanawha Airport Tuesday but continued on to Wilmington, Ohio, after the plane was thoroughly checked.

The C-119, piloted by Lt. Col. G. W. Becker of Laurel, Md., made the landing on one engine after crew members suspected a fuel leak in the other.

Shapiro Hit for TV Purchase Agreement

HARRISBURG (UP) — Auditor General Charles C. Smith said today it was "up to the administration" to act on charges the state Welfare Department circumvented state law in obtaining television sets for mental institutions.

Smith leveled his charges after refusing to approve payment on the first installment in the transaction.

The Republican state official said Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro entered into an agreement with the Jacobs Safeway Corp., Philadelphia, to purchase between 312 and 356 television sets on a deferred payment basis over a four year period for a total cost to the Commonwealth of $77,000.

The agreement specified the payments would be in the form of rentals, with the state obtaining title to the sets after four years with payment of an additional $1 each. Smith told Shapiro in a letter "this matter has the stamp upon it of deliberate and calculated evasion of the law."

Smith said Shapiro did not have the authority to purchase property for the state and that it was "doubtful" he had the right to enter into rental agreements.

The letter followed Smith's rejection of payment vouchers submitted by the Welfare Department for $2,736 in rental fees covering sets in about 10 institutions for periods ranging from one to three months.

Smith pointed out the Property and Supplies Department was the state's purchasing agent. He said although Shapiro had referred to the transaction as a "rental agreement," the firm termed the arrangement a "sale."

"...your first duty as an administrator is to have proper regard for money entrusted to your care through appropriations," Smith wrote Shapiro. "The deliberate use of techniques to accomplish your purpose which run counter to the law does not argue well for the trusteeship imposed upon you as administrator of such huge funds."

However, Smith conceded his authority ended with rejection of the pay vouchers and an interpretation of the transaction. He said any further action would be up to the administration.

The charges were the latest in a series leveled against the Welfare Department by the auditor general. Earlier accusations included "payroll padding" and diversion of state funds for purposes other than intended.

Oregon Senator Strikes Blow for Haircut Freedom

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) took the floor of a civil rights-conscious Senate today and struck a blow for freedom of haircuts.

The senator called the court-martialling of an airman for refusing to get a "white sideall" haircut absurd, petty ... frivolous, cavalier, humiliating"—and a prime way to cut Air Force enlistments.

There is no better way to drive self-respecting enlisted men out of the service than to discipline a man because he does not want his hair cut "according to the absurd specifications" of his unit commander, Neuberger said.

"Do we want robots in the armed services or men of initiative and independence?" asked the senator.

"This whole incident smacks of the old goose - stepping Prussian army of Von Moltke and not of the citizen army of a free and democratic republic," he said.

He advocated punishment for the "blundering and discipline-obsessed superiors" of the airman rather than for the man himself.

pation in our Park 'N Shop Program proves this case in point."

The bulletin then continued with this warning:

"The committee has been very much concerned about the poor response it has received to date in its attempt to correct the existing deficiencies in our Park 'N Shop Program. Many attempts have been made to improve the overall program, yet several merchants remain phlegmatic and stubborn.

"So it now behooves the committee to take drastic action in correcting this unfavorable situation by warning all Park 'N Shop merchants that unless they participate in a better spirit, their names will appear in a special bulletin that will be circulated to the entire Chamber of Commerce membership."

The bulletin said the Chamber would not go into this "nasty phase of corrective measures," until the Traffic Committee visited all of the "shirking" merchants and requested improved co-operation.

"Let's regain some of the early stages of the Park 'N Shop program" the bulletin urged.

A. Edward Wilen, chairman of the Parking and Traffic Committee, signed the bulletin which was distributed to all merchants.

Sends Ambulance To Own Home

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A police radio dispatcher sent an ambulance to his own home Tuesday.

The ambulance brought Mrs. Lowe to Montefiore Hospital where she gave birth to a seven-pound boy. Lowe was on hand at the hospital to greet his second child.

Three Promoted at Valley Plants of Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Promotion of three district men at Pittsburgh Steel's Monessen and Allenport plants was announced today.

John Kossar, of 1000 Rostraver St., Monessen was promoted from foreman of the gate shop to general foreman of the barb wire shop, gate shop and straighten and cut shape department at Monessen.

Another Monessen employe, Walter M. Gladys, of 433 Fourth St. Donora, stepped up from clerk in the open hearth department to pit foreman.

At the Allenport works, John W. Sowden Sr. of 472 Highland Ave. in North Charleroi, a 35-year veteran with Pittsburgh Steel, was promoted to turn foreman in No. 4 hot mill. Before his promotion, Sowden was a roller on No. 3 hot mill.

Kossar joined Pittsburgh Steel 29 years ago and was assigned to the nail mill in the Monessen works. He later worked as a welder, pickler, annealer and foreman in what was then the stainless steel department. Kossar and his wife, Mary Ellen, have two sons, John L., Jr. and Gary R.

Gladys joined Pittsburgh Steel Co. at the Monessen works in 1946 as a mould checker and moved up to ingot weigher and clerk. Gladys and his wife, Irene Louise, have two sons, Richard M. and Robert W.

Sowden, came to the Monessen works in 1922 as furnace door puller in the then Monessen Tube Mill. In 1924 he transferred to the Allenport works where he operated the polishing mill. He later worked on the piercing mill and reducing mill and became roller in September, 1956.

Sowden and his wife, Dorothy have two daughters and a son, Patricia (Mrs. E. D. Charles of Charleroi), Barbara (Mrs. Joseph Cardinale of North Charleroi) and John W. Sowden Jr. of Monongahela.

Rieck Plant in Charleroi Quits Processing Milk

Processing of milk at the Charleroi plant of the Rieck Dairy Co. will be discontinued on Aug. 1, according to an announcement yesterday by James Wagner, manager.

He said, however, that the company will continue to maintain a distributing branch in Charleroi.

The announcement said that milk formerly received at the Charleroi plant will be taken to the main plant at Pittsburgh for pasteurization and bottling. Refrigerated trucks will deliver the milk to Charleroi for distribution.

Wagner said the change will result in some reduction of the present working force. He added that the company will retain a staff of some 80 employes, including salesmen, office workers and route driver-salesmen.

"The trend in the dairy industry," Wagner stated, "is to concentrate processing in larger plants, utilizing modern transportation and refrigeration methods for economical distribution of products."

Nine men died in the crash last Sunday.

Israel Protests Against Egypt's Arrest of Sailor

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) Israel protested to the United Nations Tuesday night against Egypt's arrest of an Israeli sailor and its delaying passage of an Israeli-chartered freighter through the Suez Canal for more than 24 hours.

Arthur Liveran, Israeli charge d'affaires, asked U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to act immediately to obtain the release of Israeli seaman Raffi Eylon who was taken off the freighter, the 2,355 - ton Birgitte Toft, when it arrived to pass through the canal.

A Cairo dispatch said Egyptian military intelligence officers were questioning Eylon today to establish whether he was an Israeli army man. Officials said Tuesday they suspected he was.

A dispatch from Port Said said the Birgitte Toft completed transit of the canal Tuesday night and steamed directly into the Mediterranean, en route to Haifa. It had sailed from Rangoon with a cargo of rice.

oline and motor oil, and auto repair services.

The June cost of living index stood 3.4 per cent higher than in June, 1956, and nearly 5 per cent higher than in April, 1956, when the almost unbroken cost of living rise of the past year started.

The BLS reported that the average price of pork chops rose from 85 cents to 93 cents a pound between May and June and bacon from 71 to 75 cents a pound.

Clague said that smaller supplies of pork this year were mainly responsible for the rises in meat prices. He said he would feel more confident about the possibility of the cost of living index declining toward the end of the year "if we had a few more hogs" for marketing.

machines. He added that pinball playing is "almost all skill" with some luck and judgment also involved.

Robert Breighter, an engineer of the Bally Manufacturing Co., Chicago, producers of pinball machines, offered a technical testimony on wiring of the machines.

This was intended to refute earlier defense witnesses who said the machines were so wired as to make the odds a matter of chance.

The case began July 15.

Senate Ready to Deal Ike Another Setback

WASHINGTON (UP)—Dixie foes of the administration civil rights bill seized on the Clinton, Tenn., segregation case verdict today as a clinching argument for a jury trial amendment.

The Senate meanwhile made ready to deal President Eisenhower a jolting setback on another key feature of the bill.

A vote was scheduled this afternoon on an amendment to strike out a provision giving the attorney general sweeping powers to seek injunctions in rights cases generally.

Supporters of the amendment were confident the Senate would approve it by a substantial majority. One authoritative source forecast a tally of 55-60 votes for the amendment. Opponents privately conceded defeat.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said he had "no doubt" the amendment would carry.

Passage of the pending amendment would leave the bill primarily a voting rights measure. Southern opponents were gearing for their next attack—a move to amend the bill to provide for jury trials in contempt cases involving voting rights.

They said Tuesday's verdict in the Clinton case refuted a main argument of the bill's supporters that a white jury in the South would not convict in Negro rights cases.

An all - white federal court jury at Knoxville, Tenn., found outsider John Kasper and six of 10 Clinton residents, likewise whites, guilty of contempt for violating the court's injunction against interfering with Clinton's school integration.

Brownell for Active International Court

LONDON (UP) — U. S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. called today for a "total" international court system in which all nations would be forced to settle their disputes.

Brownell offered his plan at the opening here of the American Bar Assn. annual convention, the first full-size American convention held in Europe and the biggest Anglo-American legal gathering ever organized.

Nearly 3,000 American lawyers and an equal number of dependents traveled here aboard several ocean liners and dozens of planes for a week-long survey of international legal problems with the top legal brains of Britain.

Speaking in Westminster Hall, a hallowed landmark of Anglo-Saxon law in Britain's houses of parliament, Brownell said a "total" international court system was the safest way to end the risk of nuclear warfare. He proposed that Britain and the United States pioneer its establishment.

"We must perfect a machinery for settlement of international dispute—not occasionally, but on a total basis—under a tribunal or system of tribunals which will command general confidence as to the fairness of their judgments," he said.

Brownell implied criticism of the present international court at The Hague when he said the proposed tribunal system be supported by a public opinion that will not tolerate a departure from the decisions of the court.

The Hague court can decide disputes only if the nations involved volunteer their submission. It was unable to do anything about the two world wars, Korea and the Suez crisis.

Sheppard Case Still Confused

DELAND, Fla. (UP)—The off-again, on-again revival of the Marilyn Sheppard murder case came to a halt today with a hint that private investigators may take it up again later.

A merchant seaman who had planned to fly here to confront Donald J. Wedler, 23, the Florida convict claiming he might have killed Mrs. Sheppard in Cleveland in 1954, called off temporarily his trip to Florida.

But the seaman, Ernest J. Kolofolias, 32, now in Waterloo, Iowa, stuck fast to his identification of Wedler as a suspicious motorist who gave him a ride near the murder scene some 24 hours after the slaying.

Kolofolias said he had cancelled plans to fly here but that he might make the trip later. He said mystery writer Erle Stanley Gardner, who heads an unofficial group that has been investigating the Sheppard case, telephoned him from New York Tuesday to say he was interested in the seaman's story.

"He told me to sit back in my chair and try to remember every little incident," Kolofolias said.

Stay In Contact

The merchant seaman said Gardner's secretary called him today and told him to "stay in contact" with Gardner, the head of a Court of Last Resort that specializes in trying to free persons unjustly convicted of crime.

A proposed face-to-face meeting between Kolofolias and Wedler in the Volusia County jail here with permission of Sheriff Rodney Thursby appeared to be possibly the last hope of freeing Dr. Samuel Sheppard as the murderer of his wife.

Kolofolias, shown United Press Telephotos of the bushy-haired, 23-year-old Florida convict Tuesday, declared he was the motorist he saw the day after the murder of Mrs. Sheppard at her suburban home near Cleveland, on July 4, 1954.

Confession called "Phony"

Wedler, who confessed to the bludgeon slaying on July 11 to Thursby to "get a murder off my mind," was called a "phony' by Cleveland authorities who questioned him Tuesday.

Three police investigators from Cleveland denounced Wedler's confession.

But Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert of Ohio told United Press in London, where he is attending the annual convention of the American Bar Assn. that he did not think they were competent to express an opinion of Wedler's purported confession.

Another Lie Test Asked

Dr. Samuel R. Gerber, Cuyahoga County, Ohio coroner, one of the officials who denounced Wedler's confession after the questioning Tuesday, said Wedler became "angry and aggravated" when they told him they believed it to be phony.

Herbert commented that Gerber and the others "were all convinced only two hours after Mrs. Sheppard died that her husband killed her and naturally they've now got to justify what they said in a public court at the time of trial."

Herbert, who was one of Sheppard's defense attorneys, said he thought Gerber should submit to a lie detector test regarding his testimony at the trial.

Three Young Thugs Face Murder Charge

Three young thugs who severely beat an elderly man in a robbery attempt last May 13 yesterday were charged with murder following the death of their victim Monday.

The victim, Austin Wallace, 72, died in Washington Hospital where he had been confined since the beating.

The murder charge came after an autopsy performed yesterday revealed that Wallace died of a cerebral hemorrhage due to trauma or a blow on the head, according to L. C. Gray, Washington County coroner.

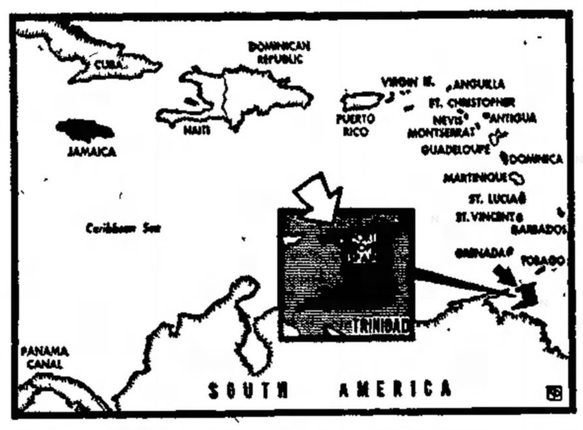
George Pollard, 18, of 15 Iron street, Canonsburg; James Glenn Alford, 19, of Houston and Ronald E. Burgess, 20, of Canonsburg, R. D. 1, are being held awaiting grand jury action.

Alford and Burgess were taken into custody at their homes yesterday by state police. They had been released from custody on bond set by the court. Pollard was already in jail. All three had previously been accused in the robbery of Phillip Danley, Canonsburg, R. D. 2, a service station owner.

Wallace was attacked May 13 when he heard a knock at his door about midnight and, led to expect that it was a friend, unlocked and opened the door.

The three rushed in and held and beat him, it was reported. The attack was discovered when a neighbor investigated because she heard a "commotion" at the Wallace home.

Wallace, who died in Washington Hospital at 2:15 p. m. Monday was a retired coal miner. He was born Aug. 25, 1881, in Columbiana, Ala.



BIG INTERNATIONAL PROBLEM — An international incident, or something, is occurring over that little promontory (arrow) northwest of Port of Spain, Trinidad. It's called Chaguaramas, and has what is called the world's best beach. In 1941 Britain gave the U. S. a 99-year lease on it in the 50-destroyer deal, and the U. S. used it as a base. Now it has been picked as capital of the West Indies Federation, being formed. Islands included in the federation are shown in black. The U. S. ambassador is wrestling with the problem in London.

Ninth Nuclear Test Fired Early Today

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP) — "Kepler," the ninth nuclear device fired by the Atomic Energy Commission in its summer series, was triggered atop its 500-foot steel tower at 4:50 a.m., p.d.t., today and the earth was shaken from a yield estimated at more than 10,000 tons of TNT.

The resulting thunderbolt disintegrated the tower and unlocked new secrets of nuclear fission for AEC scientists. Some 70 0military observers got first-hand experience in atomic warfare as they crouched in trenches some 3,000 yards from ground zero.

The AEC had been holding up announcement of the test pending last second weather briefings and at shot time the AEC headquarters in Las Vegas, Nev., some 70 miles to the southeast still had not been notified Kepler would be fired.

Reporters did not know the test was going off until they heard the count - down signifying all was ready.

Observers in Los Angeles and San Francisco saw the flash from the explosion in the dark, moonless sky.

A blimp of the U.S. Navy drifted over the Yucca Flat proving grounds of the AEC at a distance of several thousand yards from Kepler's steel tower and observers from foreign nations watched the display as guests of the Federal Civil Defense Administration.

A U.S. Navy blimp, due to hover in the general firing area to obtain blast data, did not have sufficient time to get into position because of the touch - and - go weather which made postponement momentarily possible. It now is scheduled to leave its Santa Ana, Calif., base next week and take part in the Shasta experiment.

Observers from foreign countries watched today's display as guests of the Federal Civil Defense Administration. A continuation of the underground shelter experiment was held by a group of 18 members of the civil effects test group and naval radiological defense laboratory.

The underground team was reported "all safe" after the blast and proceeded with taking radiation readings from inside the shelter.

Boris Pishko, first vice-commander; William Pavlovich, second vice-commander; C. R. Murmar, chaplain; Nick Alexander, phy, finance officer; George Chesser, sergeant-at-arms; and Andy Valko, historian.

Local Priest Is Speaker at Ohio Program

A Monessen priest was the principal speaker at the 22nd annual Ohio Valley Slovak Day on Sunday in Toronto, Ohio.

Rev. Augustin Stevko, S.T.D., who is assigned to Holy Name Church spoke on the life and work of Monsignor Joseph Tiso, the martyr president of the Slovak Republic.

This year marks the 10th anniversary of Msgr. Tiso's death. He was condemned by the Czech's puppets in Moscow on April 18, 1947.

More than 1,500 delegates from the tri-state area attended the day-long program.

Others from Monessen attending were the Rev. Joseph Gajdosik, pastor of Holy Name Church; Stephen Magura and John Behansky.

Rotary Members Hear Account of Scout Jamboree

A first hand account of the recent international Boy Scout jamboree at Valley Forge was given members of the Rotary club at their noon meeting in Johnson's yesterday.

Six Scouts ranking from Second Class to Eagle, all of Troop 2 in Monessen, gave their impressions of the big gathering which attracted boys from all over the globe.

The Scouts' span of interest covered all phases of the jamboree from eating and swapping to the quality of leadership, they told the Rotarians. Those taking part in the program were David Rhome, Tommy Strauss, Terry and Allen Throop, Bill Dawson and C. L. Melenyzer.

Visitors at the meeting were J. R. Katusa, Jr., Masontown; Carl Ensley, Pittsburgh; Anthony Strauss, Monessen; and Vern Nelson, Andy Barbe and Remus Johnson, all of Charleroi.

The club will not meet next Tuesday, which is Monessen community picnic day.

New Members Installed by Kiwanis Club

Three new members, Edward H. Stern, James A. Oelschlager and Charles J. Mayerchak were installed in the Monessen Kiwanis Club last night at a dinner meeting in the Slovak Home.

In the absence of the president, Charles Penwick and Stephen Spontak, vice president, the meeting was conducted by Rudy Benedetti, past president.

Lt. Gov. W. R. H. Patterson conducted the installation before the business session.

Tentative plans were discussed for a president's night honoring Charles Penwick for his service the past year. Plans were also completed for the annual family picnic on Aug. 6.

The Kiwanians will entertain their sons at the Pittsburgh Pirate-Milwaukee Brave baseball game at Forbes Field, Aug. 20. The group will have the sons as dinner guests at the Slovak Home and then go by chartered bus to the ball game.

Several members announced intentions of attending the Pennsylvania district convention to be held in Pittsburgh in October.

$60,000 Verdict in Landslide Cases

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A Common Pleas Court jury Tuesday directed a contractor to pay more than $60,000 to three persons who claimed a landslide in Stowe Twp. in 1949 damaged their properties.

The verdict was returned against E. H. Dobson who held a contract from the Hachmeister Corp. for an excavation project. The plaintiffs charged the excavation caused the landslide.

Dobson must pay $19,936 to Carl M. Kosco; $32,686 to the estate of John Kosko and $9,825 to Helen Drwinga.

10 Die in Bomber Crash

HONOLULU (UP) — A Navy barge and crane attempts today to raise the shattered remains of a Navy Neptune patrol bomber that crashed near Barber's Point, killing 10 crewmen.

The crash took place Tuesday as the twin-engine plane was returning from a four-hour routine flight. A witness who was following in a jet said the plane stalled and fell nearly 1,000 feet into the water.

"When she hit, she flew to pieces," the witness said.

Navy divers recovered the bodies of four men Tuesday night just before rescue operations were called off. The twisted hull of the plane was found in 0 feet of water about one mile offshore.

The Navy withheld the names of the men aboard until it notified their relatives.

It was the third crash in a week involving a Navy Neptune patrol bomber. It brought to 30 the number of men killed or presumed dead in accidents on this type of plane.

The other accidents took place in northern Italy. Last riday, a Neptune crashed in the Italian Alps, killing 11 men, while a second Neptune searching for the missing plane crashed Sunday near Turin, killing nine.

To Catch a Vandal, Don't Let Him Start

The problem of chronic vandalism in Monessen is so serious that time and imagination are going to have to be expended generously by the responsible authorities to make any effective inroads upon it. The malicious destruction of public property here has been carried on at a tremendous cost over a period of years. It has recently brought a distressed cry of help from school officials who say the condition is out of control.

In a large sense we believe this stems from lax law enforcement generally. Juveniles who observe the law broken regularly, systematically and deliberately in a community soon get the idea that there's no reason for not smashing things up if the spirit moves them.

In a smaller sense we doubt whether the specific problem of vandalism is going to be cured by brief campaigns of watchfulness or a few token arrests, if and when the police are fortunate enough to catch someone in the act.

GRANTED a respect for public property is something every youngster should grow up with in his home. It happens we have some homes, however, where this is not part of the atmosphere. It behooves the community then in some way to get the point across before the youngster gets to the destructive stage.

Community pride is not a prescribed course in the schools, and it's unlikely we can hire teachers certified in this specialty. But any school worthy of the name should find a means for imparting some measure of community pride and respect for property to its pupils. Any school which does not see here an educational challenge as well as a disciplinary problem does not catch the idea that the best time to curb vandalism is before the damage is done.

CITY OFFICIALS too could do a great deal more than has been done in Monessen to tell the public about what is at stake. To our knowledge there has never been an official summary of the extent of local vandalism or its cost. (What taxpayers pay to keep lamps in Sixth Street park alone must make a shocking statistic). Putting the problem in a light which will make every citizen a respecter of and a watchdog over public property will be more effective of results than sporadic announcements that now we are going to catch someone.

Our problem here goes far beyond the nuisance of routine mischief. It calls for some extraordinary effort on the part of all those who have custody of public property.

Armed Forces Cut

BY CUTTING the armed forces to 2.7 million men, 100,000 below authorized strength, President Eisenhower will be able to reduce by $200 million the funds previously requested for the military establishment.

Defense Secretary Wilson also assures him the cut can be made "without materially affecting deployment of major combat units abroad, including those in Western Europe."

The emphasis on Western Europe is not accidental. Signs of nervousness on the part of the Adenauer government in West Germany over American intentions have been plain and frequent. It was necessary to indicate that this manpower cut will not affect American forces in West Germany.

The size of the defense budget is an indication of the nation's determination to maintain its position vis-a-vis the Russians rather than with respect to the number of men in uniform. And that budget will be shaved not much more than one-half of one per cent as a result of this decision.

That money figure of $200 million seems small. Is it possible that this is all the money that will be saved by separating 90,000 men from the armed forces, including over 10,000 officers, during the next six months? That is the amount the Defense Department will eliminate from previous requests. And Secretary Wilson proposes to "reaffirm to the congressional committees concerned the urgent need" for appropriating the remainder of the funds requested.

There are indications that the administration, confronted with taxpayer and congressional sentiment for economy and faced at the same time with rising costs of developing new and tremendously expensive weapons, has taken this step in the hope that it can therefore avoid more drastic cuts.

Kenneth Roberts

THE DEATH of novelist Kenneth Roberts saddens all those who were devoted to his vivid stories about American history. A painstaking craftsman, he nevertheless avoided the mark of the grind in his writing. His gift for making the past come alive is probably not to be matched among all those still living and still trying.

Besides his stories he had some opinions. One of these was that obscenity in a book was either pandering for sales or covering up the author's lack of taste and talent. More of those who would emulate the Roberts success should work as hard and subscribe to a like opinion.

Behind The News—

Krushchev Is Having His Unity Troubles

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Nikita S. Khrushchev is having a lot of trouble in his attempt to re-establish what he calls unity in the Communist world.

Mr. McCann

In his recent speeches, Khrushchev has emphasized that he wants to form "a broad socialist front" and to "strengthen friendly relations within the socialist camp."

What he means is that he is determined, if he can, to stop the drift away from Soviet Russian domination of other Communist countries and to restore Moscow as the authority on Marxian doctrine.

Confers With Leaders

Especially, Khrushchev wants to get President Tito of Yugoslavia back in the "socialist camp."

In this attempt Khrushchev conferred in Moscow last week with Yugoslav, Bulgarian and Albanian leaders.

But Tito shows no disposition to give up any of the independence he won when he broke with the late Josef Stalin in 1948.

Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai of Red China seem well contented also in continuing to assert themselves as co-equal authorities on Communist philosophy.

And now Premier Joseph Cyrankiewicz of Poland has joined Polish Communist Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka in restating Poland's position as at least a semi-independent unit in the Communist world.

Poland, Cyrankiewicz said in a speech in Warsaw Sunday, is impelled to "follow attentively" what is happening in Yugoslavia and China.

Poland Improves Relations

Cyrankiewicz said that Poland has improved its relations with fellow Communist countries in recent months and especially with Russia.

But he added that Poland also had improved its relations with other countries, including the United States, Britain, France and Yugoslavia.

This may draw a retort from Khrushchev. During his tour of Czechoslovakia which ended last week Khrushchev spoke somewhat bitterly of Marshal Tito's improved relations with the United States and other non - Communist countries.

Background of Rioting at Clinton

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — In reviewing the bitterness stirred up at Clinton, Tenn., it's important to remember that the confused young man who stirred it up, John Kasper, is a close friend of Ezra Pound, who broadcast for the Axis during the war. Pound escaped trial as a traitor only on the plea of insanity.

Mr. Pearson

Kasper also was on such intimate relations with negroes that he attended negro dances in Harlem, and brought a negro girl, Florette Williams, from New York to Washington to vist Ezra Pound at St. Elizabeth's Hospital for the insane.

With this background, Kasper, who has spent most of his life in the north, went south to organize white citizens councils and to stir up trouble against the race with which he had been so intimate in New York.

Incompetent Veterans

Last week the House Veterans Committee considered a bill by which the estates of incompetent veterans dying in veterans hospitals would be paid to their wives, dependent parents and children.

The bill was considered because some aged veterans, either insane or incompetent in VA hospitals, have been leaving fairly large estates, and it was proposed that these estates go to the wife, parents or children — or in case none of them was living the money would go to the U. S. Treasury.

Congressman Carl Anderson, Republican of Minnesota, proposed an amendment to include brothers and sisters in the list of beneficiaries.

Later it developed that Anderson has a brother who has been in a VA hospital since World War I. The congressman is the brother's guardian and handles his estates.

NOTE — The bill was beaten. The law now remains as is: the estates of incompetent veterans go to next of kin, no matter who.

Civil Rights Notes

Nine Republicans have notified Senator Knowland they will not vote to shut off the filibuster. The list includes Goldwater (Ariz.), Jenner (Ind.), Young (N.D.), Malone (Neb.), Mundt (S.D.), and Williams (Del.). This means that the filibuster can last interminably unless there's a compromise. Only 60 votes can be raised by Republicans and northern Democrats for cloture — which is far short of the necessary two-thirds . . . Knowland has promised to deliver 35 Republican votes against the jury-trial amendment. He has told Senator Douglas of Illinois, the Democratic civil rights leader, that all he needs to do is to raise 15 votes to defeat the jury-trial amendment. Northern Democrats, however, are having trouble finding even 15 Democratic votes. Such senators as Jackson and Magnuson (Wash.), Mansfield and Murray (Mont.), and O'Mahoney (Wyo.) have indicated they will vote with the south for trial by jury . . . Vice President Nixon has been using his influence with Republicans to stop talk of compromise. He is probably the toughest negotiator for a strong civil rights bill . . . Southern senators have agreed to let the debate roll along without any undue obstruction for the first couple of weeks until they see what kind of compromise they are getting. They are convinced they will get some important compromises.

Tax Loopholes

The administration would like to hush it up, but several utility companies have been milking the Federal Treasury to pay their stockholders huge tax-free dividends.

Money that normally would have been paid in taxes went instead to the stockholders under the government's tax-amortization program. The private power companies were granted fast tax write-offs supposedly to encourage industrial expansion for defense purposes. Instead, the companies paid their stockholders handsome dividends.

What's even more amazing, the stockholders didn't pay a penny income tax on these dividends. The companies claimed the money was "returned capital," or, in other words, a refund on the original investment. Therefore, the companies contended the dividends were tax-free.

Here is a list of the private power companies that have been paying dividends to the stockholders instead of the tax collectors during the last seven years:

Detroit Edison paid $8,902,786 in tax-free dividends; Pacific Power and Light paid $6,768,481; California Oregon Power, $5,237,211; Hartford Electric, $4,075,016; Southwestern Public Service, $3,994,258; Illinois Power, $2,074,700; Oklahoma Gas and Electric, $1,743,759; Connecticut Light and Power, $1,591,714, Central Louisiana Electric, $1,586,268; Central Hudson Gas and Electric, $1,410,702; Rockland Light and Power, $885,334; Florida Power Corp., $759,996.

All this money, lost to the Treasury, must be made up by taxpayers who don't have big corporation lawyers to figure out loopholes for them.

Diplomatic Pouch

UN troops in the Gaza Strip are now so completely under Egypt's thumb that they had to smuggle in new furniture from Israel. They couldn't buy it openly. The Egyptians have forced the UN command to bring all its supplies through Cairo and across the Sinai Desert instead of the short route through Israel. This has run expenses so high that recently UN headquarters secretly bought new furniture in Tel Aviv and smuggled it across the border into the Gaza Strip . . . King Saud has sent a secret message to President Eisenhower demanding that he keep Israeli ships out of the Gulf of Aqaba. Saud has swung emphatically behind Egypt on this highly explosive issue. He now believes Eisenhower double-crossed him.

Secrecy Clause Tossed In Civil Rights Bill

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP) — It may come as a surprise to the newspaper editors of the United States, but here are the facts:

They or their reporters could be fined or imprisoned for an all-out reporting job on the Civil Rights Commission to be established by the administration bill now pending in the Senate.

Mr. Wilson

It is a fact that the proposed legislation has some built-in secrecy provisions to be invoked by commission whim. It also is a fact that the bill would provide a fine of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not more than a year on individuals who either leaked or used certain commission material marked secret.

The Eisenhower administration cannot be charged with responsibility for this secrecy gimmick which would permit any or all evidence or testimony in a commission hearing to be withheld from the public. This bureaucratic rosebush was planted in the bill by Chairman Emanuel Celler's House Judiciary Committee.

Gives Explanation

The explanation given the United Press was that these and other procedural provisions were written into the bill after it reached the House to make the whole thing "less unpalatable to the South." Southerners ahd protested that, as received from the Justice Department, the proposed legislation confided to the commission authority both too vague and too broad.

In repairing that mistake, if any the judiciary committeemen authorized the commission to proceed at will in secret. On what grounds this was done is not evident. It scarcely could be, however, on grounds of national security which is the defense of most bureaucrats in Washington when they want to keep from the public the manner in which they are transacting the public's business.

Paragraph E of the bill's Title I, which sets up the commission, provides that:

"If the commission determines that evidence or testimony at any hearing may tend to defame, degrade, or incriminate any person, it shall receive such evidence or testimony in executive session..."

Executive session means secret session from which reporters and all other representatives of the public are excluded. Paragraph G is the enforcer, as follows:

Need Commission Consent

"No evidence or testimony taken in executive session may be released or used in public sessions without the consent of the commission. Whoever releases or uses in public without the consent of the commission evidence or testimony taken in executive session shall be fined not more than $1,000, or imprisoned for not more than one year."

The commission, thus set up with authority to conduct its business in secrecy, will have trouble enough without settling itself in the middle of the controversy now roaring in the United States about bureaucratic abuses of the secrecy privilege.

Whatever the commission may say or do, one side or the other in the civil rights controversy is likely to complain. The temptation of the commission to conceal what it may of its controversial hearings will be almost impossible to resist.

The secrecy provision probably will prove to be a time bomb set in the commission's innards.

Hair and Hat Styles Now Go Hand in Hand

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)— The millinerr and coiffure people finally have halted their hair-pulling.

Usually at an undeclared war with each other, they now have created hair styles to go with hats, or vice versa.

The result is the hairdo with the fringe on top —to balance the hats which sit well back on the head.

Gay Pauley

By fall, we women will be hiding our foreheads or part of same under bangs for the first time on a grand scale since the pompadour bangs of the 1930's.

Soft Curls

The new forehead covers aren't flat. Nor are they frizzy. They feature soft curls, half-curls or just wisps. Some are brushed across the forehead and down to eyebrow level in what one style group dubbed "Prince Charlie" cut—after Charles, heir apparent to the British throne.

"Bangs are must with the new hats—especially the berets and turbans which are worn well back on the head," said a spokesman for Coiffures Americana, which runs a chain of beauty shops in leading department stores. "Otherwise the forehead is harshly exposed."

Coiffures Americana is featuring the "cascade cut" for daytime; the "balloon coif" for dress - up occasions. The cascade has a soft, slightly curled bang formed by brushing the hair forward from the crown.

Short In Back

It is short at the back, and brushed from either side of the head toward the center to form a "poufed swan's tail." The balloon cut consists of big, soft curls brushed high and full.

"The millinery and hair style people finally are getting together," said Kenneth Battelle, head stylist for Lilly Dache. Battelle shows bangs of all types for fall, some of them brushed forward on the face, others brushed up in a soft pompadour effect. "A little height in the hair-do is becoming to all women," said Battelle.

The National Hairdressers and Cosmetologist Assn. adopted the "siren cut" as the official style its 50,000 members will feature for all. The hair is short "but not a butch," said Thomas Colesant of the association's fashion committee. "Length should be from three to four and one-half inches in length, depending on the shape of the face and head," he explained. "There is a trend to brushing the hair up and away from the nape of the neck."

The siren cut has bangs with lift and some fulness. "A little puff," said Colesant. "so they look good both front and profile."

The Lighter Side—

Some Hot-weather Harangue

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP) — Harried hanks of hot-weather harangue:

"You know what's the trouble with American business. It's the three-martini lunch, that's what's the trouble," said the man at the bar to the bartender.

He suspended his martini glass in midair and continued:

"I will venture the opinion that a great many business decisions in this country are made by brains that are to some degree under the influence of alcohol. And that goes for governmental decisions too, and I mean government at all levels—local, state, and national."

"Um-hm," said the bartender. "Have another before lunch?"

"Of course," said the man, "now you take. . ."

The hot news from Rome is that the new styles for women feature knee - length skirts and shapeless dresses. Well, voh-de-oh-doh, bee's knees. And cat's pajamas—as long as we're returning to the 1920's in one field, let's return in another.

Will Tin Pan Alley please, for the sake of suffering humanity, take a heavy cudgel to rock n' roll and bring back some of the 1920 song standards that go with the knee-high hemline? I could even stand another blurt of "Yes, We Have No Bananas" if it would knock off just one caterwauling janglepiece.

This, by decree of one segment of the cosmetics industry which has its eye on men's scalps, is "National Save-Your-Hair Month." The man at the next desk, an irresponsible sort, suggests that a slogan-of-the-month could be "Hair Today and Gone Tomorrow."

If you ever doubted that America is the world's most - organized place, a look at a directory should convince you. In the Manhattan telephone book's long list of associations are such as:

Association of Adjustable Shoulder Strap Manufacturers, Association of Average Adjustors, Association Institute Association for Interpersonal Dynamics, Association of Lacedanemonians, Association of Piped Buttonhole Mfrs., Association for Research and Enlightenment, Association for Protection of the Adirondacks, and Association of Uptown Converters.

Bellmar 'Guessing Game' Over

The Bellmar "guessing game" is over with the selection of Thomas Healey of Wellsville, Ohio, as the new basketball mentor of the Hurricanes and also the new grid aide to Bap Manzini. Healy will certainly have his work cut out for him in basketball where he is competing in the rugged Mon Valley section with perennial powers Monessen and Charleroi and above average teams at the other valley schools. Many names had been linked with the Bellmar cage job, some of them now connected with the school system there, others outsiders, the same applied to the football assistant's post. It was felt the positions would be kept separate and two appointments made but rumor has it the jobs had to consolidated to make the salary attractive enough. Regardless of all that, welcome to the Monongahela Valley, Mr. Healy, we wish you luck and success in abundance.

John H. Coulson, Monongahela school director, has been reelected high chief of the Konne-Yaut Indians' Trapshooting Association. Quite an honor for the sharp-shooting Mr. Coulson . . . The high command of the local Ozarks diamond nine believes it has two of the youngest players in the Mon Valley League in Mike Kunsa and young Joe Arrigo of Charleroi, both are only 16 years of age . . . Fisher Brown, of Donora had a rough time of it in the Ozarks-New Eagle game Friday when he was the only umpire to show. Everytime a player reached base, Brown had to come from behind the plate and call balls and strikes from behind the pitcher. Harry McCurdy, a spectator, came down out of the stands to assist Brown. McCurdy is a MVL arbiter but wasn't assigned to the Ozark-New Eagle tussle.

Redstone to Appeal 'Ouster'

Word from up Republic way has it that the Redstone Blackhawks don't plan to sit back and take an ousting (as they call it) from the Big Six Football Conference. According to an item in a newspaper from that area the 'Hawks will make an appeal to remain in the conference. Head grid mentor Joe Bosnic says, "We have always regarded the Big Six as the best conference of its kind. We were proud and privileged to be a member and I'm sure most of the school board members and fans feel the same way." He added, "We think so much of belonging to the conference that we would have continued playing in the loop even if our enrollment went down to 200 students." . . . Redstone officials claim their application for membership, (according to conference rules) was never acted upon by the loop officials.

* * *

Dr. Michael Herk, new president of the conference was asked to comment on the dropping of Redstone but replied that he was not at liberty to discuss it at present. He stated, "We will say everything there is to tell on Tuesday, Aug. 6 when we plan to hold a press conference with members of the Mon Valley Sports Writers Association. Any and all questions will be answered at that time." . . . Enough of the "great controversy" for the time being . . . North Carolina's Jim Tatum has a knack for coaxing potential gridders to the campus there but leaves something to be desired in KEEPING them there. Recently he lost Centerville's Red Worrell and now Frank (Dobro) Dobrowolski, Har-Brack's all-state end in 1955 expects to quit NC after a year's schooling and enter Penn State.

Boating Becoming Major Sport

Boating is really becoming a major sport and if you don't believe it how do you account for the whopping 1.25 billion dollars spent by boating fans in a year compared to the 53 million spent by baseball fans or the 12 million by grid followers. Even golf with its 344 millions "bucks" spent on that also rapidly growing sport can't approach the boating figure. Only hunting and fishing enthusiasts spend more — $2.5 billion, but part of that total is spent on boats and boat accessories . . . Con Lupori, ex-Bellmar High pitcher, who looked very impressive in his Mon Valley debut with Charleroi last week will be out of action for awhile with a deep laceration of the left arm received while picking up planks over the weekend — required 10 sutures.

'Sunny Jim' Keeps on Chucklin' at Calendar

By OSCAR FRALEY

OCEANPORT, N.J. (UP)—The man said he didn't have any stakes horses which looked promising for next year and he'd probably have to wait until 1959.

What's so startling about that?

Well, the man was "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons—and he was talking on his 83rd birthday.

Don't bet against him, in the matter of hours or horses, either, because "Mister Fitz" has been chuckling at the calendar for lo these many years.

His 83rd birthday was observed Tuesday at a party at Monmouth Race Track which he requested be "restrained in size."

"Not Good Shipper"

"I'm not a good shipper any more," he grinned, using a race track expression to soften the request that not too many people pump his hand and pound his bowed shoulders.

The forward bend to his body is "Sunny Jim's" only concession to the years. His eyes are bright and his grin is ever present. He still gets to the track in the dawning to supervise the workouts of his chargers and his word is still the law around his barn.

He's had a lot of great horses, has "Mr. Fitz." Two of them, Gallant Fox and Omaha, won the coveted triple crown which includes the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes. It was he who saddled such recent greats as Nashua and Bold Ruler.

One of his brightest memories is of that day in 1955 when he sent Nashua out in a match race at Chicago against Swaps. Nashua had been beaten by Swaps in the Derby and, in agreeing to the special race in which Nashua won easily, "Sunny Jim" was living up to his credo:

"There's only one way to decide who's best — and that's to have 'em run against each other." That wasn't his biggest kick, though, he admitted.

"The greatest was by first winner as a jockey, at the old Gloucester Track in New Jersey," he recalled. "I rode a horse named Crispy and won by a sixteenth of a mile—but I was so eager I was still whipping him when we crossed the finish line."

Skinner Hero in 6-3 Buc Victory

Belts Two HRs, Touches off Rally in 15th

CINCINNATI (UP) — Bob Skinner was the batting hero Tuesday night as he belted two homers and then touched off a rally in the 15th inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Cincinnati 6-3.

Vernon Law registered his third pitching victory in seven days and his seventh of the season as he faced all Redleg batters in the marathon contest except the last two.

First in Fifth

Skinner's first homer came in the fifth against Johnny Klippstein to give the Bucs a 2-0 lead. His second four-bagger in the 12th put the Pirates ahead 3-2.

The Redlegs tied the score 2-2 in the ninth when George Crowe hit his 23rd homer of the year and tied it again in the bottom of the 12th when Jerry Lynch hit his first.

Skinner tallied for his fourth hit of the game in the deadlocked 15th with a single and raced to third when Brooks Lawrence threw wild on Bill Virdon's sacrifice.

Dick Groat singled to score Skinner with the tie-breaking run and two more runs crossed on Bill Mazerowski's single.

Loss for Lawrence

The loss was charged to Lawrence who took over in the ninth inning, and was his sixth against 11 victories.

The triumph enabled the Pirates to end a string of five straight Cincinnati triumphs against them.

Pittsburgh will meet the Redlegs again tonight with Bob Friend (7-12) scheduled to pitch against Joe Nuxhall (4-5).

Ozark Nine Host to Fayette City Entry

Monessen's Ozarks of the Mon Valley League, still fighting to gain a playoff berth, host first-host Fayette City at Ninth Street Park tonight.

The locals have been playing improved ball of late but need to continue playing "hot" if they hope to grab a playoff slot as the third round of play opens Friday when Donora visits the locals.

Mitnick May Hurl

Manager Pappy Johnson has not decided on who to hurl tonight but will wait until the last minute before deciding who will go against the league-leaders. It will probably be Bill Mitnick, star of the local hurling staff.

Other games on tap for tonight show Perryopolis at Van Voorhis, Donora at Charleroi and West Newton at New Eagle.

Currently the Ozarks are tied with New Eagle for sixth place, both showing 16-17 records.

After tonight's game, the locals have only seven tilts remaining on the 1957 schedule.

Buck Henry in TV Exhibition

Buck Henry, local boxer, who trains in the Hilltop AC in Charleroi, will appear on TV tonight at 5:30 o'clock over the Akron, O. station in an exhibition bout with Bobby Gordon, middleweight champion of Ohio.

Both fighters will tune-up for their appearance on the fight card at Jeannette on August 8. Henry will fight Ray Shaffer of Sharpsburg in a four-rounder on the Jeannette card. Gordon will box Johnny Morris of Pittsburgh.

Gordon is managed by former lightweight champion Sammy Angott.

Red Wings-'Hawks In 'Big' Trade

DETROIT (UP)—Jim Norris, better known for his boxing ventures with the International Boxing Club, was the key man in negotiating Tuesday night's Detroit Red Wing-Chicago Black Hawk trade which sent all-stars Ted Lindsay and Glenn Hall to the Hawks.

The Wings received 22-year-old center Forbes Kennedy and former Red Wing Johnny Wilson in addition to junior Bill Preston and goalie Henry Bassen and cash for the fiery 13-year veteran of the National Hockey League and baby-faced goalie Hall.

"Jim has been talking to Ted for weeks," General Manager Jack Adams of the Wings said. "Ted has been talking of only one more playing season for quite awhile now and then he has his business manufacturer's agent along with Gordie Howe in Detroit.

"Jim agreed to protect Ted for two years as far as the business is concerned," Adams said

The switch broke up one of the greatest lines of all time—the famed "Production Line" Howe, at right wing, and Lindsay ranked one-two in NHL scoring last season and Lindsay holds the lifetime scoring record for a left winger as well as many other records.

Norris is head of the Black Hawks. His brother, Bruce, is president of the Red Wings and head of Olympia Stadium while Jim heads the Chicago Stadium. The teams and stadiums were part of the holdings of their father.

East Liverpool Hurler with Bucs

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Righthand pitcher Rudy Trbovich, 21, East Liverpool, Ohio, has been signed by the Pittsburgh Pirates, it was announced today.

Trbovich was signed to a contract with the Pirates' AAA Columbus, Ohio, farm club in the International League and will be optioned to the Buc's Grand Forks N.D. farm club in the Class C Northern League, according to a spokesman for the Pittsburgh Baseball Club.

The weekly stock car races at Washington Raceway were postponed last night. Raceway officials said yesterday's rains made the track too wet to permit the drivers to perform.

Brickner Amazing French

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A husky Charleroi, Pa., steelworker who is in training to swim the English Channel, writes he amazes Frenchmen because he drinks milk.

Gus Brickner, who plunges into the Monongahela River near his home for winter dips, wrote the Pittsburgh United Press bureau from Calais, France, where he has begun his training for the Channel swim.

"When I ask for milk, every person in the place watches me because everybody over here drinks nothing but wine or beer," the 45-year-old Brickner wrote.

Brickner said his training is being supervised by George Pourcelle, chief instructor at the beach in Calais.

"This week Pourcelle ordered me to swim two hours per day with four hours walking, Brickner said. "Next week, I will swim two miles one day and four miles the next.

"Pourcelle said he will start me off on the attempt 12 miles up the coast from Calais at Cap Gris Nez.

"I just learned that Pourcelle helped train my buddy, Jacques Amyot, of Quebec, who swam the channel last year in 13 hours and two minutes."

A chance to conquer the channel is a realization of a dream that Brickner has cherished for years. Earlier this year two Pittsburgh district businessmen promised to finance his overseas venture but later withdrew the offer.

A public subscription campaign to raise funds fell short of its goal. W. C. Falkner, a Pittsburgh trucking operator, made up the difference and Brickner flew to France.

Ex-Buc Hurlers Misses No-Hitter

By UNITED PRESS

Cholly Naranjo, given little support by his teammates in the past few weeks, took matters into his own hands and just missed pitching a no-hitter.

The 22-year old former Pirate gave up a scratch hit to Buffalo's Lou Ortiz in the final frame of a seven - inning game as Columbus whipped the Bisons, 5-0. In the nightcap of the doubleheader, the Jets' Whammy Douglas held the International League leaders to five hits while winning, 4-1

The decision helped Naranjo break a four-game losing streak, during which period he was given only six runs.

Vince Amor, star righthander for Havana, also came through with a brilliant effort by stopping third-place Toronto on two hits, -0 Veteran Johnny Schmitz started for the Leafs and was tagged with his fifth loss against seven wins. Amor is now 11-10.

In the only other action, Montreal built up an early 10 run lead and then coasted to an 11-7 verdict over Miami. The scheduled double header between Rochester and Richmond was postponed by rain.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Zero In

Careful lining-up is as necessary on tee shots as on any other. But too many golfers — especially on long holes — simply get up on th tee and lash out in the general direction of the hole.

Such a practice will lead to trouble that won't be easy to shake!

Remember, line-up your tee shot with care. This means checking the set of the face of the club, the feet, the hips, and the shoulders. See that everything is lined up in the direction in which you want the ball to go. And be sure that the feet are properly placed. That is the whole basis of proper aiming.

Many players assume they are aiming along the proper line simply because they are LOOKING along the proper line. But thre's more to it than that!

Yanks' Dugout Now Air-Conditioned

NEW YORK (UP)—It's great to be a Yankee these hot days at Yankee Stadium.

When the Yankees returned home Tuesday night to open a 17-game home stand, they found their dugout has been air-conditioned—a five-ton unit wafting cool breezes up and down the bench while a de-humidifier gets rid of all that nasty moisture in the air.

All this, of course, has been done in the Yankees' dugout. The visiting team still has to sweat it out.

Baker Battles Machen Tonight

CHICAGO, (UP) — Bob Baker, once the No. 2 contender for the heavyweight title, tries to get back in the top 1 ratings in the division tonight against the current No. 2 battler, California's Eddie Machen.

Baker was a 3-1 underdog to the unbeaten westerner managed by Sid Flaherty, who previously piloted Bobo Olson to the world middleweight crown. The fight will be on the television network.

Baker has beaten some name fighters in his 58 bouts, including Nino Valdes, Rex Layne and Julio Mederos. But Machen has also beaten Valdes and Holman as well as Joey Maxim, the only fighter ever to whip the current heavyweight champion, Floyd Patterson.

"Machen's ready for a title chance," Flaherty said, "but he needs lots of work and that's what he can get out of the baker fight.

Big Car Sprint At Heidelberg Track Sunday

A full crew is working overtime this week to get the Heidelberg track, the fastest half-mile dirt track in the east, ready for the Big Car spring program slated Sunday afternoon, July 28.

A field of 30 Indianapolis-type cars of the All-American Racing Club is due late this week from Winchester, Ind., where they ran last Sunday.

Time trials begin at 1 p. m. and the program will be climaxed by the 50-lap championship race at 2:30 p. m. All races will be run in inverted order — the most powerful cars starting in the rear — thus making everyone work for a win.

Some of the drivers, such as the veteran Tom Cherry, are known to district fans but many new cars are now running in the AARC, many drivers having switched to duel injection models.

An example is Red Amick of Muncie, Ind., who won the AARC championship last season and will be at the wheel of the powerful Archie Lacy Chrysler 400 out of Houston Tex.

This car owner and driver team has its eyes on the world's record for modified engines.

Bell Sees Doom Of Pro Sport Unless Exempted

By TOM NELSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—The czar of professional football said today the sport may be "doomed" unless Congress acts to exempt some of its key features from anti-trust laws.

Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, proposed a four-point plan of exemption from a Supreme Court edict subjecting pro football to anti-trust regulation.

Bell said in testimony prepared for delivery to a House anti-trust subcommittee that the Feb. 25 court ruling jeopardizes "the four essentials which in our judgment are necessary to the continuance of professional football as it is conducted today:" The player "draft" system; The reserve clause; The commissioner's powers to govern the game, and territorial rights of teams.

He asked Congress to pass a law exempting the four from anti-trust regulation.

"If any of these should now be held by the courts to be an unreasonable restraint of trade, organized professional football, the highly competitive and colorful sport that we know today, would come to an end," Bell said.

"It would inevitably revert to its former state when four top clubs won most of the games and the public refused to support the poor teams which were unable to acquire good players, irrespective of offers of larger salaries."

Bell was the initial witness as the subcommittee turned from professional baseball to football

Mickey Mantle Has 'Greatest Day' in Topping Chisox, 10-6

By FRED DOWN

Mickey Mantle's homer wasn't quite out of this world and the Chicago White Sox aren't quite out of the American League pennant race—but both points seem academic today in the wake of the New York Yankee slugger's "greatest day in baseball."

In a one-man show that rivaled anything ever accomplished by Babe Ruth himself, Mantle virtually single-handedly took the White Sox apart Tuesday night in a 10-6 victory that sent the Yankees 5½ games ahead of the American League's sole remaining "contender."

"I'd have to say it was my greatest day in baseball" the 25-year old slugger admitted. "At least, I can't remember a better one."

First, there was the thrill of Mickey's 465 - foot homer in the third inning that came close to being the first fair ball ever hit out of Yankee Stadium.

The White Sox, out-gunned but dead game, battled back to go ahead, 6-4, in the sixth inning only to have Mantle deliver a triple with the bases filled, highlighting a five - run seventh - inning uprising that sent the world champions in front, 9-6. In all, the Yankee slugger hit for the cycle—single, double, triple and homer—for the first time in his big league career, took over the batting lead (.367) and the runs-batted-in lead (69) and moved to within one of Ted Williams in the homer race with a total of 26.

Ditmar Gets Win

Frank Sullivan scattered 10 hits to pitch the Boston Red Sox to a 1-0 victory over the Kansas City Athletics and Billy Hoeft won his third decision as the Detroit Tigers whipped the Baltimore Orioles, 5-2, in other AL games. Cleveland at Washington was rained out.

The Red Sox scored the only run of their game in the fourth inning when Jackie Jensen singled, went to third on Joe DeMaestri's error and tallied on Billy Consolo's single. Sullivan struck out nine Athletics as he gained his ninth victory. Virgil Trucks suffered his fourth defeat.

Bill Tuttle and Ray Boone had a double and two singles each to lead the tigers' nine-hit assault on four Baltimore pitchers. Hoeft yielded seven hits in 8 2-3 innings before Harry Byrd came in to retire the last batter.

Braves Keep NL Lead

The Milwaukee Braves retained their one-game lead in the feverish National League scramble when Bob Buhl's two-hitter gave them a 1-0 decision over the stumbling Philadelphia Phillies. The Brooklyn Dodgers beat the St. Louis Cardinals 1-0; the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Cincinnati Redlegs, 6-3, in 15 innings; and the Chicago Cubs blanked the New York Giants, 4-0, in the other NL games.

Johnny Logan tripled home Del Crandall in the second inning for the only run Buhl needed to notch his 11th win and second shutout. Milwaukee's Red Schoendienst singled in the eighth inning to run his batting streak to 20 games but Hank Aaron, back in action after five games, went hitless.

Johnny Podres pitched a five-hitter to gain his fifth shutout and eighth victory for the Dodgers, who scored the game's only run in the second inning on reserve catcher Rube Walker's bases-filled single. Stan Musial singled in the first inning for the 2,900th hit of his career.

Bob Skinner hit two homers to drive in three runs in the first 12 innings and then touched off the Pirates' three run 15th with a single to help Vernon Law win his third game in seven days and seventh of the year. Brooks Lawrence suffered his sixth loss after the Redlegs tied the score twice on ninth and 12th inning homers by George Crowe and Jerry Lynch.

Rookie Dick Drott struck out 14 batters to win his ninth game for the Cubs, who dealth the Giants their sixth loss in seven games. Bob Speake had a single and a home run to lead the Cubs' attack.

Dallas Desegregation Of Schools Ordered

By UNITED PRESS

The Fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans Tuesday ordered public schools of Dallas, Tex., desegregated "with all deliberate speed", and opened the way to a court test of school segregation at Miami.

The sweeping decisions coincided with historic decisions of three North Carolina cities to accept at least 12 Negroes voluntarily in previously all-white schools.

The appeals court overruled the northern U. S. District Court of Texas which had thrown out the complaints of 28 Negro children and their parents who sought admission to white schools through court action.

The court held that the Negroes had been denied a right to attend the public schools of their choice "solely on account of their race or color, but did not order Dallas schools integrated immediately.

Under the ruling the schools may remain segregated until a detailed study can be made of 12 key questions relating to the possible effects of integration. But this ground work for integration must proceed "with all deliberate speed," the court said.

In a second decision the court overruled a finding of the southern U. S. District Court of Florida that Negro plaintiffs in Miami had not been denied their rights. This decision opens the way for integration of Dade County schools.

The school boards of Charlotte, Winston - Salem and Greensboro, N. C., voted to admit the scattered Negro applicants to white schools under a state pupil-placement law that had been regarded as intended to forestall integration.

Music Goes on Even Though Place Is Closed

WASHINGTON (UP)— The lights are out these nights at the Casino Royal.

The air conditioning is off. The windows are shut. The doors are locked. There isn't even a peanut butter sandwich in the house.

But there's music.

Each night Bob Simpson and his seven-piece dance band show up in white dinner jackets and fill the close, heated air with soothing melodies.

Restaurant manager Leon Zeiger insisted that if he paid they played.

"I explain the situation to the boys and they say fine just so long as I pay them,' Zeiger said.

"If I'm gling to pay for it, I'm going to get it. So I'm getting it.'

'Million Dollar' Rainfall Eases Drought Condition

HARRISBURG (UP)—State officials said Tuesday's "multi-million dollar rainfall" eased near drought conditions on Pennsylvania's farmlands, although some sections still needed soaking rains.

The five-day weather forecast called for fair weather with little or no rainfall, and temperatures averaging three to four degrees below normal and gradually rising by weekend.

The state Agriculture Department said crops were expected to take an upward turn, with corn and vegetable crops and fruit reporting "rejuvenated" by the first statewide rainfall since July 13 when scattered amounts fell across most of the state.

The Weather Bureau at Harrisburg said rainfall amounts over most of the state Tuesday were "quite generous," with some central Pennsylvania areas getting almost one and one quarter inches.

Fickle Consumer Has Businessmen Worried

NEW YORK (UP) —The fickle consumer has the nation's businessmen reaching for tranquilizers.

They've found it exasperating to anticipate Joe Smith's whims and fancies.

Many economists looked for heavy consumer spending this year on cars and other durable goods. Instead, Joe Smith has been spending more than ever before for services of all kinds — maid service, taxi rides, laundry and vacations.

Some companies have made a fortune by guessing right or by being lucky enough to have the right product in the right place at the right time—like the New York wholesaler who had a warehouse full of coonskin caps when the Davy Crockett craze hit the nation.

More Leisure Sought

In the year the economists thought Joe Smith would be plunking down for refrigerators and such like, he is buying outdoor grills, hi-fi sets, swimming pools and other items enabling him to better enjoy his leisure time.

This helps to explain disappointing auto and appliance sales this year in the face of the biggest consumer expenditure in history—an estimated 277 billion dollars.

Dr. Marcus Nadler consulting economist to the Hanover Bank, says the trend toward services is a principal factor in the economy at present.

He notes that consumption expenditures for services reached an annual rate of $102,700,000,000 in the first quarter of 1957, against $96,700,000,000 in the same period of 1956.

In other words, the American consumer is spending some 6 billion dollars more for services annually than he did a year ago.

They include services rendered by doctors, lawyers and dentists. They also include movies, transportation and utilities like gas, water, electricity.

Living Standard Rising

Economists point out that many of the services now being purchased mark another step in the consumer's upgrading of his standard of living.

Economist A. W. Zelomek, a visiting professor at Virginia University's Graduate School of Business Administration, says consumer spending this year will hit a record high, topping last year by 10 billion dollars or more.

He says that sales of summer merchandise will be the greatest in history, a favorable omen for increased production and sales in the spring and summer of 1958.

Most economists now believe the second half of the year will be better than the first half.

Barbershop Trimmed

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (UP)—Police today sought a thief who might be planning to open a barbershop. Clippers, shears, combs and hair tonic were stolen early Tuesday from a local barbershop.

Leader on Important Committee

CHICAGO (UP) — Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois has named nine governors to a committee aimed at meeting President Eisenhower's challenge of more governmental responsibility for states.

The President made the proposal to the Governor's Conference at Williamsburg, Va., last month, and Stratton, chairman of the conference, announced his appointments Monday.

"Functions which states are ready and willing to assume and finance that are now performed wholy or in part by the federal government," President Eisenhower said, should be taken over by states.

The nine governors are to meet with cabinet members and presidential aids at Hershey, Pa., on Aug. 9 and 10.

The governors who will participate are:

New Hampshire Gov. Lane Dwinell; Nebraska Gov. Victor E. Anderson; Mississippi's James Coleman; Texas' Price Daniel; Kansas' George Docking; Pennsylvania's George M. Leader; Maryland's Theodore R. McKeldin; Rhode Island's Dennis J. Roberts; and Idaho's Robert E. Smylie.

The group was charged by the Governor's Conference with the duty of developing "ways and means of obtaining a sound relationship of functions and finances between the federal government and the states and to formulate definite proposals to these ends."

Gov. Leader described the pending Hershey meeting as "an essential step in the right direction —an opportunity to perform a constructive service that can be of benefit for many years to come."

"As we all know there is much that needs to be done," the governor said in a statement issued through his Harrisburg office while he was vacationing. "Certainly we can make a sound beginning in this direction only if we approach the task in a true spirit of objectivity, free of partisan rancor.

"It is important that we encourage all levels of government to examine closely their respective responsibilities — the sooner the better. A sounder relationship between federal, state and local government is bound to prove advantageous at every level."

Hot? Here's Answer

CHICAGO (UP)—John and Helen Whalen have come up with a real cool solution to beat Chicago's humid summer heat. They'll teach school at Kotzebue, an Alaskan Eskimo village 200 miles north of Nome.

$650,000 For Erie Projects

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Commerce Department planned to turn over $650,000 in state funds today to the Erie Redevelopment Authority's Peach-Sassafras project in Erie.

Commerce Secretary William R. Davlin was to present the funds to Erie Mayor Arthur J. Gardner. The grant is for redevelopment of 29 acres of slum area in the center of Erie.

The predominately residential district is bound on the north by west 15th St. and the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads, on the south by West 19th St. and the Nickle Plate Railroad, on the west by Sassafras St. and on the east by Peach and State Sts.

Seaway Port

Davlin said the project was "another milestone in Erie's all-out effort at civic improvement." "It takes its place importantly alongside the new industrial promotion project and the state-local move to make Erie a great port on the St. Lawrence Seaway."

Erie officials said 90 per cent of the dwellings in the slum area were substandard and over 25 per cent were overcrowded in addition to lacking proper heating and plumbing facilities. The reclaimed area will be used for expansion of commercial establishments and warehousing and storage facilities close to railroad sidings and a parking lot.

The redevelopment plan also is designed to prevent the spread of blight, encourage the separation of commercial and industrial uses from residential use and improve the development potential of the surrounding areas by providing improved physical surroundings.

Nameless Boy's Body Is Carried to Grave

By C. B. ENGELKE

PHILADELPHIA, (UP)- The battered body of a nameless little boy was carried to his grave today by six burly policemen who have sworn never to give up their search for those who murdered him six months ago.

Capt. Warren Guthriell, chaplain at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, conducted a non-demonina-tional service over the little casket at the Mann Funeral Home, and interment was in the city's burial ground beneath a blank headstone.

The funeral was furnished by voluntary contributions from members of the city police department in cooperation with the Philadelphia Funeral Directors' Association.

Flowers surrounded the casket containing the body of the blue-eyed, brown-haired little boy who was murdered last Feb. 26, many of them sent by Philadelphians who had read about the homicide squad's determination that he should not find a final resting place in Potter's Field.

All arrangements for today's funeral were made by Capt. David Roberts, head of the homicide squad, who considers the unsolved murder one of the greatest challenges to Philadelphia police since the kidnaping of Charlie Ross here 83 years ago.

The little boy, believed to be between four and six years old, was beaten to death and his body, wrapped in a faded plaid blanket and stuffed in a cardboard box, was thrown into a vacant lot in suburban Fox Chase.

Since then all attempts to identify him or his murderers have failed.

The box containing the body originally had contained a bassinet, and police traced it to a J. C. Penney store in suburban Upper Darby where 12 similar bassinets had been sold from Dec. 3 to mid-February.

An appeal to the public brought forth most of the purchasers, and their cartons were accounted for. A few of them still have not been found.

Retouched photographs of the boy have been sent throughout the country by the thousands; television stations in this area have cooperated by showing his picture frequently.

Police know a great deal about the boy—apparently he came from a good home because he had been well cared for. He was 41 inches tall, and weighed about 40 pounds. He might have had a defect in his left eye, but he did not wear glasses. He had injured his chin at one time, leaving an "L" shaped scar.

Andrea Doria Sinking Still in News

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

NEW YORK (UP) — One year after the sinking of the Andrea Doria six lawyers are working full time to settle claims arising from the tragedy, engineers and adventurers are pondering salvage methods, and a movie producer is preparing to film the wreck of the luxury liner.

On July 26, 1956, the pride of the Italian Line plunged 250 feet to the ocean floor a little less than 11 hours after she and the Swedish-American liner Stockholm collided with a loss of 50 lives. An additional Doria passenger died of injuries last April, and several are still under medical care. One of the 1,663 survivors recently drowned on an outing.

Fifteen-year-old Linda Morgan, the girl who was lifted from her Doria berth and borne to safety in the crumpled bow of the Stockholm, has recovered from her injuries and will be a sophomore at a Quaker school in Bucks County, Pa., next fall.

"They've been calling me a 'miracle' survivor for a long time," said Linda in Snohomish, Wash., where she is visiting relatives for the summer. "I guess that's the only way to describe it. It was a miracle!"

Safe Mode Of Travel

The loss of the 29,000 - ton 3-year-old Doria ironically pointed up the fact that North Atlantic liner travel is one of the safest modes of transportation. From 1918 to the time of the unprecedented Doria-Stockholm collision, not one liner passenger lost his life due to sinking, shipwreck or accident on Atlantic and Mediterranean runs.

The headline publicity, prolonged for months by dramatic pre-trial testimony by officers of both ships, had no ill effect on liner bookings, according to statistics provided by major passenger lines. The Swedish-American Line reports this season's tourist volume is up 10 per cent over last year's, and the Italian Line has a slight increase in Europe-bound bookings. The Stockholm has capacity bookings through September.

Capt. Gunnar Nordenson, 63-year-old master of the Stockholm at the time of the collision, now is in command of the new Swedish-American flagship, the Gripsholm. Ernst Carstens-Johannsen, officer in charge of the bridge when the Stockholm's prow gouged a 70-foot hole in the Doria's side, still serves Nordenson as third mate.

Capt. Piero Calamai of the Doria, whose health was broken by the experience of losing his ship, was recently retired on pension by the Italian Line and is living in Genoa. He originally had been scheduled for retirement on his 60th birthday next December. His second and third mates, who were with him on the bridge at the collision hour, are still in service.

Building New Hull

In a Genoa shipyard, the hull of the 31,500-ton replacement for the Doria—the Leonardo da Vinci—is taking shape. The Da Vinci's keel was laid June 23 and the ship will be ready for launching in 1960. The Italian Line is building her with 19 million dollars paid by Hull Insurance Underwriters toward the Doria's 30 million dollar loss plus a multi-million dollar grant from the Italian government.

The Leonardo da Vinci will be equipped with one of the new types of "true motion" radar plotting screens perfected since the sinking of the Doria. Radar blips indicating the position of ships used to fade out in three seconds. Now they can be retained on the screen for as long as a half hour, giving a clear picture of the heading and relative speed of approaching vessels.

Experts say new radar systems, such as the one in use on the Gripsholm, should virtually eliminate the chance-in-a-million accident like the Doria-Stockholm collision, if deck officers are thoroughly trained to use the equipment intelligently. Another aid to safety at sea would be the development of a standard short range radio phone circuit so that ships of different countries could communicate by phone. The various AM and FM systems now in use are incompatible.

Some Holdouts

Progress in equipment standardization, agreement on sailing routes, and adoption of maximum safety standards in ship construction has been hampered by failure of the United Nations to obtain ratification of its Intergovernmental Maritime Consultative Organization (INCO). Seventeen countries have ratified it since it was organized on paper nine years ago and the backing of only four more nations is necessary. Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Russia are the major maritime holdouts.

The legal aftermath of the Doria tragedy remains a headache for two New York law firms who have three lawyers each and a score of assistants assigned exclusively to the out-of-court settlement of third party claims for injuries and loss of life, baggage and cargo. The Italian and Swedish-American lines agreed last January to end attempts to fix blame for the collision on each other and establish instead a joint liability fund of five to six million dollars.

The lawyers are trying to pare down 1,200 claims totaling more than 100 million dollars to the size of this liability fund. Spokesmen estimate that 10 per cent of the total claims and 25 per cent of the passenger claims already have been settled, although no money has yet been paid the claimants.

Claims To Be Paid

All claims may well be paid off in two or three years, or less than half the time originally estimated.

The Italian Line is making no plans to salvage the Doria, which is fair game for anyone according to maritime law, and no serious consideration is being given the project by any of the big salvage firms here or abroad.

Most shipping experts rule out lifting the liner or dismembering her with underwater cutting equipment due to the depths involved and the storm hazards of open sea salvage. But an official of the nation's biggest salvage firm, Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corp., said the project should not be pigeonholed as "impossible," although it might not be economically feasible.

U.S. Rubber Company scientists have disclosed they are working on a method of salvaging ships by the use of huge air - inflated rubber tubes that would be attached to the sides of sunken vessels like water wings. They say it may eventually provide a way to raise up Doria. An engineer, Robert K. Bedell, has offered the U.S. Maritime Administration a plan to float the Doria by filling its holds, staterooms and corridors with inflated bags.

To Film Hull

Since department store heir Peter Gimbel's daring skin - diving visit to the Doria's port side, some 100 feet below the surface, filming of the sunken sea queen has been a matter of speculation in movie circles. Next month, French diver Dmitri Rebikoff will try to get enough film footage for an 85 - minute color documentary by riding around the wreck on film torpedos equipped with 90,000 candlepower lighting and 16 mm. Beaulieu cameras. Independent film producer Dick Flower of New York has raised $100,000 from American and foreign interests for the project.

None of the Doria survivors interviewed by this correspondent expressed a desire to see a film of the ship where they spent some of the most horrible hours of their lives and where 43 bodies still are trapped. Mrs. Marion Woyer of Greenwich, Conn., whose shipboard suite was sheered away by the Stockholm minutes before she had planned to go to bed, summed it up by saying:

"It was like a bad dream—the kind you don't want to dwell on. I am just so happy to have gotten out alive. There are too many new, wonderful experiences ahead in life to look back now."

The Leonardo da Vinci will be equipped with one of the new types of "true motion" radar plotting screens perfected since the sinking of the Doria. Radar blips indicating the position of ships used to fade out in three seconds. Now they can be retained on the screen for as long as a half hour, giving a clear picture of the heading and relative speed of approaching vessels.

Popsicles Unfrozen

CHICAGO (UP) — Ice cream prices here have become unfrozen after 35 years. Manufacturers said Popsicles, ice cream bars and other novelties will cost six cents next month, the first increase since 1922.

State's Case Is Dismissed

HARRISBURG (UP) — Dauphin County Court has dismissed for the second time a state suit seeking to recover almost one half million dollars from Musser Forests Inc., Indiana County.

Judge Walter E. Sohn ruled Monday the latest suit, seeking triple damages of $471,684, was "fatally defective" in that it failed to establish an alleged conspiracy upon which the state's case was based.

The court dismissed the first complaint last November on the ground it failed to list specific violations.

The state Justice Department charged the nursery and five stockholders with illegal sale for commercial purposes of tree seedlings purchased from state nurseries, contending "practically none" of the seedlings were planted for reforestation or wood products but were for the Christmas tree market.

Individuals named in the suit were Fred Musser; his wife, Dorothy; the late state Sen. Murray L. Peelor; Robert M. Fisher, son of former Gov. John S. Fisher, and G. W. Musser, all of Indiana Pa.

For 'Women' Only

CHICAGO (UP)—New scientific evidence appeared today to indicate it's not a man's world after all. A rabbit offered to an experimental labroatory was turned down because Wesley Memorial Hospital uses female bunnies exclusively.

J&L Buys 2,700 Acres in 'Defense'

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. has acquired 2,700 acres of land in Chambers County, Texas, as a "defensive move," it was announced today by board chairman Adm. Ben Moreell.

The acreage fronts Galveston Bay and Cedar Bayou and has ready access to the Houston ship channel.

Moreell said the land was purchased because "the steel industry will grow and J & L's share in that expansion must be, in the main, through dispersion of its plants."

Woman Has Only External Life

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP) — A drama of two lives — one within the other — began when a 30-foot log rolled off a passing truck. It hurtled a 22-year-old woman headfirst into a wall.

Hers was the external life. And she seemed dead when picked up and carried to a hospital. Unconsciousness was deep and complete. All reflexes were gone, including the swallowing one.

Clearly her brain had been severely damaged, although there was no injury below the ear. But the central nervous system was knocked out. Most immediately alarming, its heat-regulating center was not functioning.

Her temperature was 105.5 degrees and rising. She was packed in ice-bags and bathed with ice-water for seven days. Body temperature was brought down and held between 86 and 93 degrees which, of course is considerably below normal.

Muscles Show Spasm

The heat regulating center came back. Muscles began showing spasm, and she groaned and moved if touched. So the nervous system was reviving but she remained deeply unconscious — and she was fed by stomach tube.

One month after injury, the nervous system began functioning all cockeyed, as you'd expect of any badly damaged complex thing. For 138 days, while still unconscious, she "scrambled and slithered about the bed, pulling and biting at the sheets until they were in ribbons. Every few minutes during the day and often through the night, she would let off a piercing wailing scream." She had no semblance of any kind of control.

Gradually this extreme "restlessness" diminished. "At times she would react favorably by gesture to the quietly spoken voice, when some kind of understanding or recognition would come into her eyes." She began uttering an occasional word. Four months after the injury, she was muttering in the voice of a very little girl." "I love my mummy."

Recognizes Husband

Five months after the injury, she recognized her husband. Her legs were still paralyzed and her mind was hardly functioning. But despite all that had happened to her, the external life, the other life which was within her, had been going on apparently undisturbed. This life came into the world six and one half months after the injury, when she gave birth to "a healthy and perfectly formed boy."

This wonder of life has greatly interested medical scientists. It occurred in an English hospital and was described in the technical journal, "The Lancet" by the doctors who were in charge, G.F. Rowbotham and Kathleen Bell.

They themselves underlined the two points of scientific interest. They said: "no doubt the patterns of the future are laid down at the moment when the mother's ovum and the father's spermatozoon unite and are little influenced by the mother's nervous system during growth. The mother affords shelter and nutriment. Any fault or disease in the maternal nutriment can, of course, very seriously affect the child. The effect, however, of injury to the head or indeed the other parts of the mother's body are not passed on to the child."

Protects Brain Tissues

The other point was the apparent effect of "cooling" the woman below normal body temperature and keeping her there. This combatted high temperature which would have been "harmful and possibly lethal." It also protected damaged brain tissues from "excessive reactions of the body while natural processes of repair" had time to act.

The woman now has recovered save for some remaining paralysis in the legs and a loss of memory which causes a "shallowness" of mental function. But these weaknesses are diminishing and are expected to disappear with time.

State to Accept Bids on Several District Projects

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Highways Department will receive bids Aug. 16 for construction of several projects in western Pennsylvania including 5.4 miles of four-lane divided highway to replace narrow Traffic Route 56 northeast of New Kensington.

The projects include:

Westmoreland County—Construct Route 56 spur from New Kensington to Allegheny Twp. of reinforced concrete pavement with concrete or earth divisor. Also build bridges culverts and arches and various ramps and connecting roads.

Allegheny County — Bituminous surfacing of 3.21 miles of Traffic Routes 28 and 885 in West Mifflin and Shaler Twp.

Allegheny - Beaver counties—Bituminous surfacing of 0.29 of a mile of Legislative Route 820 from the county line north of Leetsdale and construction of a reinforced concrete bridge.

Fayette County—Widen and bituminous surfacing of 3.06 miles of Traffic Route 982 in Bullskin Twp.

Indiana County — Construct a prestressed, precast concrete bridge and bituminous surfacing of 0.41 of a mile of Legislative Route 32183 near Indiana.

Most Oxygen Goes to Steel

NEW YORK (UP) — The nation's iron and steel industry consumed nearly half of all the oxygen produced in this country last year, according to the American Iron and Steel Institute.

The industry used around 23,901,000,000 cubic feet of the gas out of a total output of 49,300,000,000 cubic feet last year, the Institute said.

It noted that the industry is by far the largest consumer of manufactured oxygen and that its use in this quarter is steadily increasing.

The big, growing use is to speed up the production of iron and steel by promoting chemical reactions, the Institute pointed out.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Edward Nichols, Sr., who died seven years ago today, July 24, 1950.
Before our eyes he faded,
Growing weaker every day.
Doing all we could to save him,
Until God took him away.
His face will never be forgotten,
For we think of him every hour.
So he lives in our memory forever
'Tis sad but true, we wonder why.
The best are always the first to die,
Sadly missed by Daughters and Sons-in-law, Sarah and George Moyer; Mary Ellen and Harry Gush and Children.

In loving memory of our dear father, Edward Nichols, Sr., who died seven years ago today, July 24, 1950.
Loving memories never die
As years roll on, and days pass by
Deep in our hearts a memory is kept
Of one we loved and will never forget.
Sadly missed by son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nichols, Jr.

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Armida Kundrick, who died one year ago today, July 24, 1956.
What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see;
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But in some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more.
In Heaven, that happy life.
Sadly missed by Husband and Daughter.

In loving memory of our sister and aunt, Mrs. Armida Kundrick, who died one year ago today, July 24, 1956.
'Twas just one year ago today,
Our hearts were made to weep,
As we watched our loved one pass away,
Into that quiet sleep.
Beautiful memories of you so dear,
We cherish still with love sincere,
A day that comes with sad regret,
And one that we shall never forget.
Sadly missed by brother, sisters, nieces and nephews.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Lt. John Kalle, who was killed in action over France 13 years ago today, July 24, 1944.
Duty called and he was there,
To do his best and take his share,
His heart was good, his spirit brave,
And his resting place is as oldier's grave.
Though his smile is gone forever,
And his hand we cannot touch,
We shall never lose sweet memories
Of the one we loved so much.
Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Brothers and Sister.

In loving memory of our dear friend, Mrs. Armida Kundrick, who died one year ago today, July 4, 1956.
Her heart so kind, so loving, so true,
Loved and respected by all she knew,
To an active life came a sudden end.
She died as she lived, everyone's friend.
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
Sadly missed by her friends, Mrs. Tony DeRocco and Mrs. John Tallerico.

Billy Graham Crusade May Need Substitute

NEW YORK (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said Tuesday night that if his extended New York Crusade "goes beyond Aug. 10 they may have to get another preacher."

The 38-year-old minister said he had no idea who started the "rumor" that the crusade would continue until Labor Day but that he definitely was going on a vacation with his wife Aug. 15.

It was learned earlier, however, that the crusade executive committee holds an option on Madison Square Garden through Sept. 2.

Addressing some 15,000 persons in the Garden, at the opening session of the second New York Crusade extension, Graham said that many of them had betrayed Jesus Christ for a "moment of passion, a moment of lust."

"There are hundreds of you here tonight who have betrayed the Lord Jesus Christ," he said "You have sold out Jesus for 30 pieces of silver, some of you for less than that."

Tuesday night's attendance raised the total for the crusade which began May 15 to 1,218,100. There were 369 new "decisions for Christ," making a grand total of 37,471 during the crusade.

Weeks Predicts 'Best' Year for The United States

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks predicts this year will be the "best yet" economically for the United States.

But he warned that "inflation must be controlled—the kind of dollars we have is more important than the number of them.'

Weeks said Tuesday at a National Press Club luncheon that the Eisenhower administration's record on guarding against inflation is good.

Weeks also said the value of the nation's output of goods and services rose 6 per cent to an annual rate of 431 billion dollars in the first half of this year.

But the Commerce Department said Tuesday night that part of the increase was due to higher prices and did not reflect growth of real economic activity. The department's report also said that personal income jumped to an annual rate of 340 billion dollars—5½ per cent higher than the rate for the first half of 1956.

Consumer buying kept pace with the step-up in income and climbed 5 per cent to an annual rate of 277 billion dollars for the first six months, it said.

Barbeque Ban Urged

DETROIT (UP)—A "treatment instead of a treat' was the way Councilman Eugene I. Van Antwerp described outdoor barbecue pits Tuesday. Van Antwerp told the Smoke Abatement Department that the backyard pits should be banned because "burning food smells the same," whether it's dished up by an amateur chef or the city disposal plant.

Millions in Flood Rescue Operations

TOKYO (UP)—More than two million persons have joined the rescue operations in the flooded Shantung and East Honan provinces of Communist China, Radio Peiping said today.

The floods, worst in the history of the Yi, Shu, Wen and Szi rivers, covered 11,400 square miles of territory, and drowned at least 557 persons. The radio said observers believe the casualty figures may well rise into the thousands.

Steel Output Last Week Is Below Schedule

NEW YORK (UP) — Steel output last week fell a bit below expectations but schedules this week call for a substantial increase to 81 2 per cent of capacity to yield 2,079,000 tons, according to the weekly report of American Iron & Steel Institute.

Operations last week were at a rate of 79.3 per cent, yielding 2,030,000 net tons, compared with the 81 per cent and 2,073,000 tons which had been scheduled.

A month ago the industry operated at 84 per cent for 2,150,000 tons but a year ago with the prolonged strike in progress, operations were at a low 17 per cent for 419,000 tons.

The production index, based on the 1947-1949 average as 100, was estimated at 129.4 per cent this week against 126.4 last week, 133.8 a month ago and 26 1 a year ago.

Not Too Late for The Home Gardener

It's still not too late for home gardeners to plant crops.

That was the advice today from Joseph S. Thurston, Westmoreland County agent.

"You can keep your garden working full time until the frost," said Thurston.

"In our part of the state, there's still time to put in a mid-season variety of sweet corn and green beans," Thurston advised.

"And in any part of the state you can still plant root crops and leafy vegetables such as lettuce, kale, endive, spinach, cabbage, and Chinese cabbage."

Carrots will make a crop if planted soon, Thurston said. The seeds germinate slowly so the rows should be marked by mixing a few radish seeds with the carrots. The sprouting radishes will designate the rows and prevent damage when you run the wheel hoe through the garden. Don't sow too many radish seeds as markers or the carrots will have too much competition.

Chinese cabbage is a good fall crop for Pennsylvania, too. If it's harvested before freezing weather, it will keep a month or two in a vegetable cellar.

Endive and dale are excellent greens or salad ingredients. Tie endive leaves together in mid-October so the centers will bleach for several weeks.

Thurston said you can leave kale in the garden all winter if you protect it from rabbits; they appreciate its store of vitamins, too!

15 Doctors Fail to Answer Emergency Call

HACKENSACK, N.J. (UP)—Officials of a meat processing plant said today that 15 physicians refused to respond to emergency calls to aid a woman employe whose hand was jammed in a machine.

Mrs. Agnes Chatham, 31, of Passaic, was taken to Hackensack Hospital Tuesday with part of the machine, a steak tenderizer, still attached to her hand. She was treated for a bruised hand and shock and released.

Officials at the Ten-Da Brand Frozen Food Co. plant said they had telephoned 15 physicians to come to the plant to give Mrs. Chatham emergency treatment, but all had refused.

They said they partially dismantled the machine and took her to the hospital.

Robert Q. Lewis in Treatise on Spectacles

(William Ewald is on vacation. Today's guest writer is Robert Q. Lewis, host of his own CBS show.)

By ROBERT Q. LEWIS

NEW YORK (UP) — To see or not to see, that was the question. The obvious answer started me off wearing horn-rimmed spectacles, of which I have two pairs for TV—17 inch set and 24 inch set.

It was a wise decision, too, for, in trying to resemble my friends with 20-20 vision, I had trouble with young ladies who thought I was winking at them—when I was just innocently squinting.

Also the glasses put me in the class of "spectacles are my trademark" fraternity which many of the humorists of the past couple of decades have employed.

One of the most noteworthy of the bunch has been Harold Lloyd, whose good vision never deterred him from donning the horn-rimmed gogles without l e n s e s which were as much a part of his character makeup as the pancake variety.

Another set of spectacles that are purely decorative belong to Bobby Clark, the stage comedian. No eyeglass cases for him to lug around; he takes his specs from the markings of a handy eyebrow pencil.

More useful than decorative, Groucho Marx used his eyeglasses as a foil for expressive eyebrows which, like tide and time, never stand still. Depending on the current revival going the rounds, he wears simple rimless or silver rent revival going the rounds, he wears simple rimless or silver rimmed glasses which are built to withstand the ravages of its master's puns.

Horn-rimmed glasses served to emphasize the often surprised look on the eyes of Walter Catlett, and the same kind set off the jolly good fellow nature of Phil Silvers.

"Specatcles have been the subject of about a third of Phil's fan mail, opinions ranging from "They make you look romantic" to "They drain you of sex appeal." He's been responsible, he's told, for seasonal spurts of business at optometrists' shops at times when he appears on TV.

How did I pick horn-rims? Well, I tried to figure out what type I was. Not being the George Arliss type meant a monocle was out. Anyway, I needed two. I'm not the lorgnette type; I don't like opera. I could have chosen the rimless style, but they gave me the appearance of looking at the world through the bottoms of two Pyrex frying pans.

The silver - rimmed specs were another alternative, but they didn't go with my new gold tie clip and cufflinks someone gave me for Christmas. Any resemblance between Franklin Pangborn and me was purely coincidental, so out went the pince-nez. Which left me with horn-rims.

People still ask me if I really have to wear glasses. To tell the truth, I don't have to—only wear them when I want to see.

Ed Sullivan To Give Annual Circus Show

Continuing the innovation which he began last year, Ed Sullivan will present his annual circus show featuring the greatest acts in the business and starring the Hollywood ringmaster, Dan Dailey on "The Ed Sullivan Show" on Sunday, from 8 to 9 p. m., over the CBS-TV network.

Headlining the progfam will be the highwire wizardry of The Wallendas, a family of nine performers doing intricate and daring feats above the crowd. The Flying Zacchinis will do a double cannon and flying trapeze act in which two people will be shot 175 feet in the air.

Another amazing headline a c t will be The Brunos in a daring breakaway s w a y pole performance. The unicycling miss on a tightwire, Lola Dobritch will execute some of the most daring stunts ever performed above the heads of the crowds.

Because of the additional space needed for the performance of these unusual acts, a portion of the program will be staged in the open parking lot on 53rd St. and Eighth Ave. near the theatre from which "The Ed Sullivan Show" originates.

Additional star performers will be pianist Roger Williams; t h e singing star of New York's Copacabana night club, Toni Arden; the Canadian singing group The Crew Cuts; ventriloquist Don Tannen; and Comedian Jimmy Edmondson (Professor Backwards).

Vegetable Oil Shots Ease Sciatica Pain

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Vegetable oil might be just the thing for that sciatica or low back pain that is bothering many of you.

Now don't go running for the salad oil and start smearing it all over the painful area. That won't do any good. But injections of vegetable oil and an anesthetic might.

The injection treatment causes new cells to be produced in bone and fiber tissues at joints where the pain originates.

The treatment was developed by Dr. George S. Hackett of Canton Ohio, 14 years ago. It is based upon his belief that relaxation of the ligaments which "weld" t h e s e joints is the cause of more low back pain and referred pain than any other factor.

When a ligament is relaxed, you see, the fibers are stretched by normal movement or tension. The sensory nerves are overstimulated because they do not stretch. Consequently, pain is produced.

When this pain is produced at the site, we call it "trigger-point pain." When it is produced in some other part of the body it is termed "referred pain."

The vegetable oil solution is injected into the relaxed ligament at its injunction with the bone. The solution causes stimulation in the bone and fibrous tissue.

This simple treatment which we call "prolotherapy" causes t h e ligaments and bone to grow new tissue in the "weld' between the ligament and the bone. In effect, it stimulates production of n e w cells to rehabilitate an incomplete structure.

Generally, it takes about a month for the production of new cells. If six injections will do the trick, the job can be done in the doctor's office.

Sometimes, however, as many as 20 injections are needed in a single day. In such cases as this, the patient must be hospitalized and given an anesthetic.
